HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Student government is one of the most important and beneficial aspects of school life that McClatchy has developed. The voice of the students rightfully played an active role in conducting the various activities and functions of this past school year.

The primary sounding block for student government consisted of students eager to participate, and was presided over by Student Body Vice Presidents Kevin Crawford (fall semester) and George Relles (spring semester). These meetings of the House of Representatives gave interested McClatchyites many opportunities to enter discussions on school affairs, suggest improvements, direct the expenditure of student body funds, and consider amendments to the student constitution. The tried and true procedures of the House will continue to lead McClatchy to greater goals.

In Action: House of Representatives considers a measure.

CHAIRMEN

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The affairs of the C.K. McClatchy student body were in the able hands of a responsible and enthusiastic Board of Directors this past fall semester. The enormous responsibilities entrusted to this board were handled with great deliberation and carried out successfully. Members of this board worked diligently with their various duties and exercised their rights as officers skillfully. Every detail of school planning was taken into consideration so to improve and strengthen McClatchy's outstanding student government.

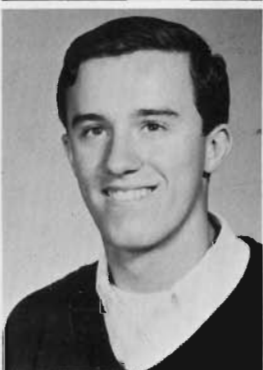

The members of the fall Board of Directors were organized, and most important, they were ambitious. As a result, the term was a positive success for our school and these officers.

McClatchy is proud of its committees and activities which have been developed and popularized throughout the years. Each one represents a different aspect of student body government and enables a wide cross section of interested students to take an active part in the planning of their school life.

METRO SPIRIT TROPHY

YELL LEADERS

Our fantastic fall Yell Leaders really challenged the lung power of game rooting sections with their new yells and routines. Terry Akins, Varsity Yell Leader, and Randy Burden, Junior Varsity Yell Leader, were elected through democratic vote to lead student spectators in cries of victory. Along with their enthusiastic assistants, these two spirit-minded young men held McClatchy's level of spirit at an all time high in spite of minor difficulties early in the fall semester. By giving every necessary ounce of effort, our Varsity Yell Leaders lead us to the much coveted Metro Tourney Spirit Trophy. Thus, while adding their pep and color to our games of skill, fall semester advocates of lung power came forth, yelled, and conquered.

SONGSTERS SPUR

Well, Hello Lions!

All together now — upsy daisy!

ON SPIRIT

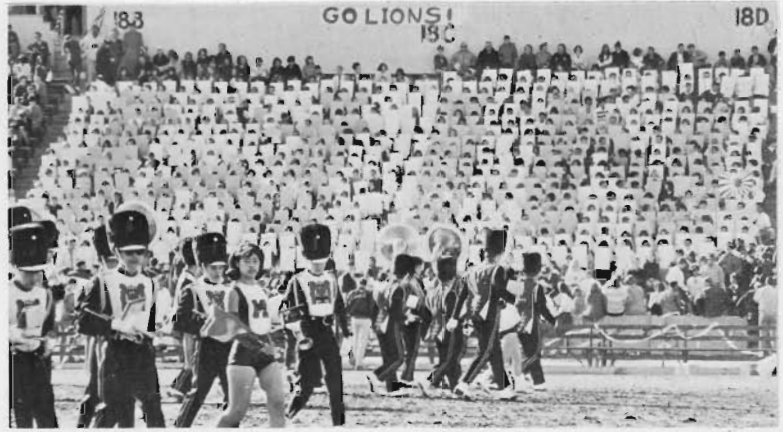

SONG LEADERS

Holding an important position in McClatchy's spirit department, our five Song Leaders added an undeniably bright and bouncy touch to C.K.'s rooting sections. Vivacious Marilyn Rude, fall Head Song Leader, chose four obviously attractive assistants to help her lead rooters in the fight songs during football spectaculars and close basketball games.

"Shoot, that Burbank team's not very nice."

"Don't look now, but . . ."

PEP CATS

Willing exuberance and enthusiasm has marked the fall semester Pep Cats Committee. Under the friendly directorship of Dave Fair, fall chairman, the members of this dynamic group promoted general spirit and co-ordinated game activities. Devoting heart and spirit to decorating the game stadiums, and planning and executing half-time activities in the form of card stunts, Pep Cats constituted an important area of our high school's extra-curricular life.

Members displayed their genuine interest in their teams efforts by functioning as a permanent rooting section at the games, and producing all school rallies. Bob Sertich, fall chairman of Rally, saw to it that his core of spirited students utilized their talents in the many and varied rallies held during the fall semester.

DISPLAY AND PRODUCTIVE ADVERTISING COMMITTEES

Although McClatchy offered many activities and social functions, the student body would probably not participate in many after-school events if it were not for these two vital committees. The Display Committee was responsible for designing the arrangements of posters in our display cases and keeping students up-to-date on student affairs.

Aiding in the school advertising industry was the Productive Advertising Committee which was responsible for the creation of the clever and original posters and signs. Ann McKibbin headed this group of advanced art students. She, as well as her staff, were chosen by the art teachers to participate, and as the posters plastered around the school at strategic spots proudly displayed, the rule is quality and not quantity.

ELECTION COMMITTEE

When the speeches have been given and the ballots cast, there still remains that very important job of counting the ballots. It is only fair that the results of the elections be withheld until the proper time, and then only the necessary information should be released. The responsibility of the Election Committee, under the directorship of ballot batty Cindy Frame, was carefully performed, and carried out with the utmost integrity and secrecy.

"You see, Kirk, I won!"

If you think this is bad, just wait til the dance starts.

GENERAL ACTIVITIES COMMITTEE

The distribution of responsibility in student government produces the formation of a variety of special interest committees. One of the most vital is the General Activities Committee. This group, under the direction of Tim Gallagher took charge of all student body dances. There are always innumerable details and problems connected with the skillful execution of school productions. In addition to contending with the details, this committee changed the possible mundane to the original and creative.

PRIDE COMMITTEE

By presenting an immaculate front to the community at large, a campus then receives not only the area's respect, but also its admiration. It was the vital function of our school's Pride Committee to maintain the fresh face of the school grounds. Fall chairman, Jerry Fletcher, has led his group in their attack against mangy looking garbage cans, and organized the clean-up campaigns, poster displays, and student clean-up days.
