ACTIVITIES

Many things were accomplished by all of us who were concerned with ourselves and our school life . . . some things were bad and others were good, but all of us were made better because we had experienced them within an atmosphere of thinking, planning, working and learning.

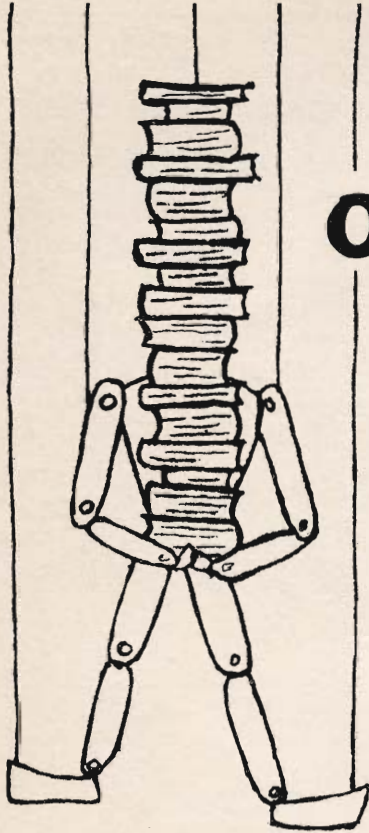

From our successes came more successes. From our failures came success in seeing what made them so. As we grew older, learned more and became able to do more for ourselves and others, we gained experience which will benefit all of those with whom we shall come in contact.

The classroom was not the only base of our learning. The playground, the halls, the people---boys and girls, teachers, parents and other school personnel---have all helped make us what we are and have given us ideas as to what we may someday become.

We learned alone and also as members of groups. The groups changed, but individuals who had been made better because of their associations made new groups---better groups---which made learning better for us all.

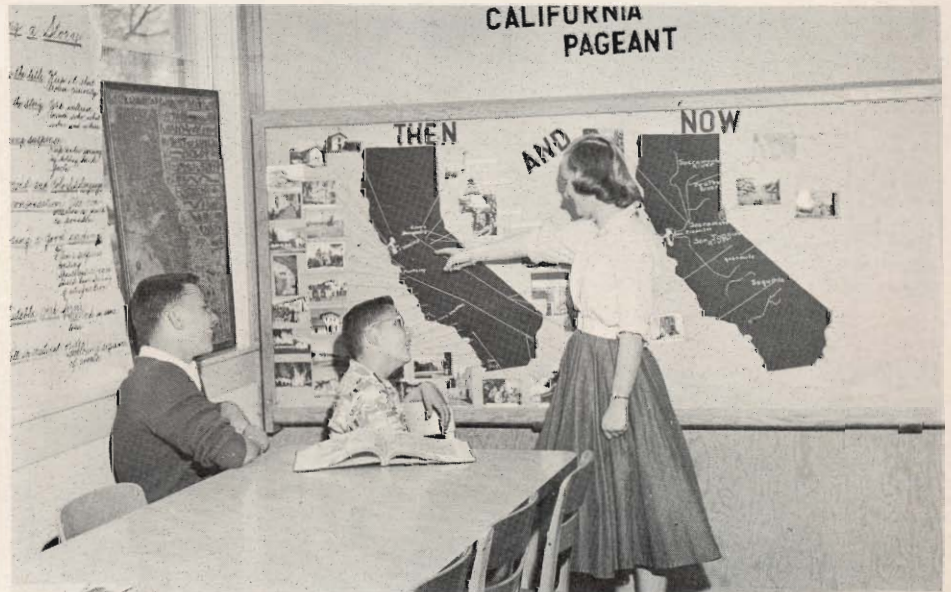

Our mark is not yet made. We have only put the pen to paper. The years which follow will be ours because we have our ideas, our plans, our goals, and a base of good experiences---our school.

The annual spring concert was one of the most successful activities of the orchestra this year. "The Merry Widow Waltz," St. Anthony's Choral," and "The Russian Dance" were among the selections which received much applause from the audience.

The Menlo Park All-City Band, composed of boys and girls from all five schools, has been most active this year. There have been several programs presented at Hillview, including the spring concert and a smaller group at the Junior UNESCO Conference and the Dads Club Barbeque.

OFF STAGE ACTIVITIES

Student opinion and representation have had a real place in our school government. Active participation by most members of the Hillview Student Association helped to make us informed citizens in our school community.
