Burget Bonine: "Yes, sir-ee. I bought this two years ago. Had it cleaned twice, exchanged it in a restaurant once, and it still looks as good as new."

Daniel Wencel: "Prithee, Alvine, why lookest thou in the mirror so long?"

Alvine Tecklenberg: "Forsooth, knave, I am counting my mustache."

Mr. Meyer: "First I'll take some sulfuric acid, and then I'll take some chloroform—"

Ted Cottel: "Do you think that is a good idea?"

Miss Graham: "What did Marco Polo ever do?"

Bailey: "Oh, he invented the game you play with ponies and long-handled wooden sledge hammers."

"When are you going to shave?"

"I'm not shaving until Saturday."

"What's coming off Saturday?"

"My whiskers."—Ex.

Bob Alexander, chairman in English: "Now we will have the biology of Burns."

Margie Pruitt: "May I have the car tonight?"
Her mother: "It's raining, and I'm afraid you'll skid into oblivion."
Margie: "Who's he?"

ANOTHER TRAGEDY

"He done me wrong," wailed the algebra problem as the freshman handed in his ex. paper.—Ex.

He: "Do you know the difference between a trolley and a taxi?"

She: "No."

He: "Good. Then we'll take a trolley."

You cad dell id's Sprig whed the beople talk lig thiz.—Ex.

Catherine Holt: "A cabbage, a hydrant, and a tomato ran a race. Which do you think won?"

Margaret Taylor: "Don't know—who?"

Catherine Holt: "The cabbage came out a head, the tomato is trying to catch up, and the hydrant is still running."

Servant: "The doctor is here."

Absent minded professor: "Tell him I'm sick and can't see him."—Ex.

TIP FOR WIVES

"I always encourage my husband to recline in an easy chair and put his feet on top of the radiator."

"Why so?"

"When he goes to bed, there is usually a dollar or so in small change left in the chair."—Ex.

Bill Bailey: "There's only one place where a woman dare not stop to powder her nose."

Ward Smith: "Where's that?"

Bill Bailey: "In a revolving door."

Carl, six years old, was standing in the street talking to some little girls when a large dog came up. The girls seemed to be frightened.

"Don't be scared," said Carl. "He can't bite you 'cause he has a license around his neck."—Ex.

An enthusiastic angler was telling his friends about a proposed fishing trip.

"Are there any trout out there?" asked a friend.

"Thousands of 'em," replied the angler.

"Will they bite easily?" asked the friend.

"Will they? Why they're absolutely vicious. A man has to hide behind a tree to bait a hook."—Ex.

Caller: "Is your husband a fast writer?"

Poet's wife: "Fast? Why, I've got out seven lines of washing to his four of poetry."—Ex.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

Loaf—and the staff loafs with you. Work—and you work alone.—Ex.

Jokes

Ernie: "I'll bet I know something that has four fingers and a thumb, yet it has neither flesh nor blood."

Biff: "What?"

Ernie: "A glove."

Emil Loffelbein: "Why did you refuse to loan the book to her?"

Ruben Burgstahler: "Because I heard she was a bookkeeper."

Miss Hall: "And why is Afghanistan still continuing to change kings?"

Kenneth Moore: "Oh, they're waiting until they find one whose name can be pronounced."

A schoolmaster wishing to impress upon the class the great population of China, said: "The population of China is so great that two Chinamen die every time you take a breath." One little boy was puffing furiously.

"What on earth are you doing, Tommy?" asked the alarmed professor.

"Killing Chinamen, sir," was the answer.—Ex.

Mrs. Larson: "Have you given the goldfish water this morning?"

Lorraine: "No, they haven't finished the water I gave them yesterday."

"L stands for lovable Lena

Who met a ferocious hyena;

Whatever occurred, I never have heard;

But anyhow, L stands for Lena."—Ex.

Teacher: "Gerald, use the word 'triangle' in a sentence."

Biff Strobbridge: "If fish don't bite on grasshoppers, then try-angle-worms."

Miss Hall: "If a man were born in England, educated in France, then moved to Canada and lived in Montreal, what would he be?"

Ruel Mintun: "He would be a dead man."

Miss McDole: "What does it mean that poets have a metre?"

Ray Walters: "I guess it means that they consume gas."

Mr. Inch: "What is the difference between an old penny and a new dime?"

Mr. Reese: "Nine cents."

Warren Johns, speaking of juries: "They can't convict a deaf man legally?"

Miss Hall: "Why?"

Warren Johns: "Because it is unlawful to condemn a man without a hearing."
