FOREWORD

THE influence of ancient Greece comes down to us like the light from a fixed star, whose glory may seem to have gone out, but whose afterglow still sheds its radiance upon the world. We look to ancient Greece for words of wisdom and undying works of art that live on with increasing value, and to Greece we pay tribute for the Olympic Games, the background of sports, which play so important a part in modern life.

The sportsmanship, effort, and high ideals which characterized the Olympic Games have been sources of inspiration to all the youth of the land. In all its activities, ideals like these have been the goal of the Lodi Union High School, where the spirit of true sportsmanship prevails, whether it be in sports or in school work itself.

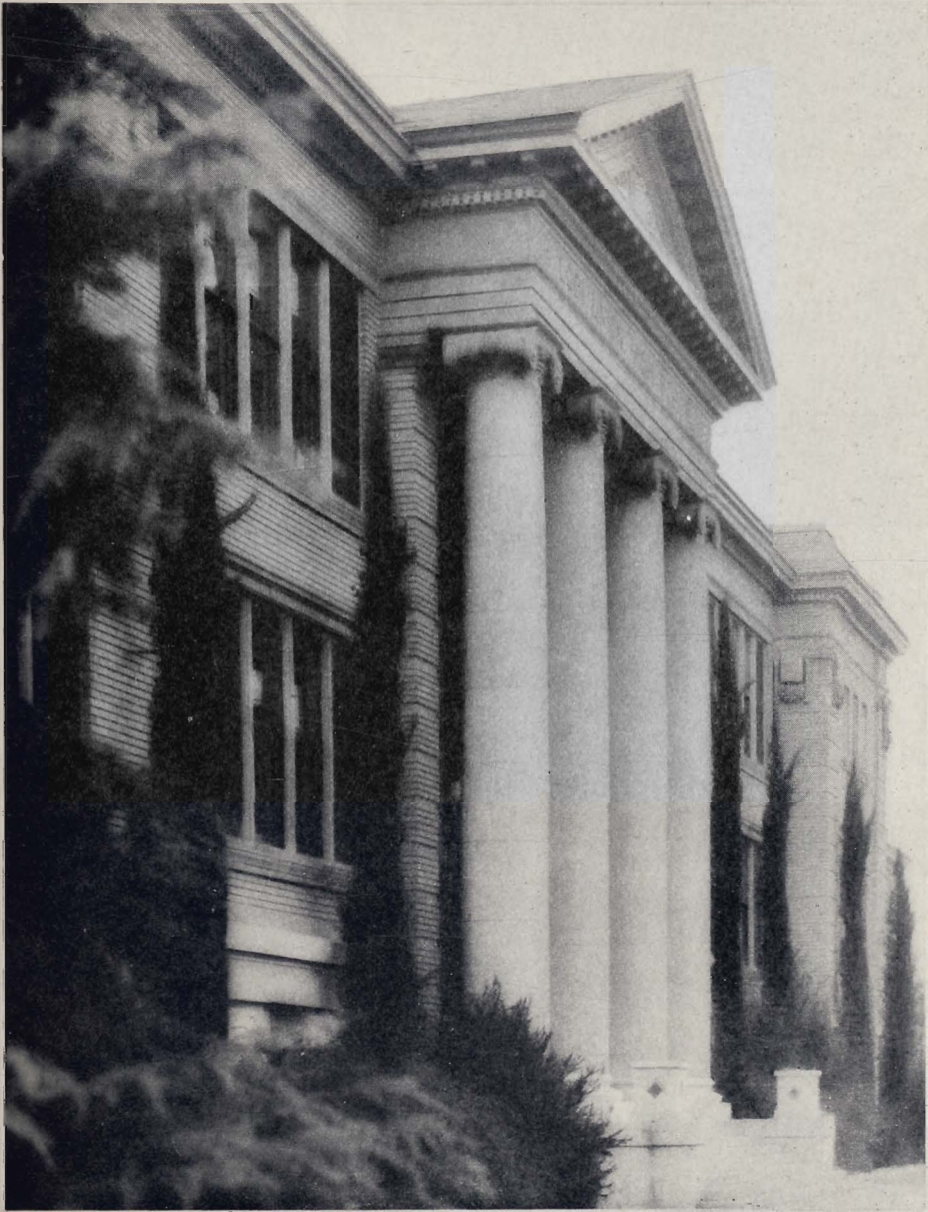

The staff of the "Tokay" has endeavored to bring into this annual something of the spirit of Greece. Greek poets and writers have been the source of our quotations, Greek sculptors and athletes the models for our art, and the Greek Olympic Games the inspiration for our annual.

Since this year marks the close of a modern Olympiad and since the Olympic Games are being held in California, we hope that our readers will feel that we have appropriately chosen "Olympic Games" as the theme for the 1932 "Tokay."

Accurate, refined and chaste."*

An Appreciation

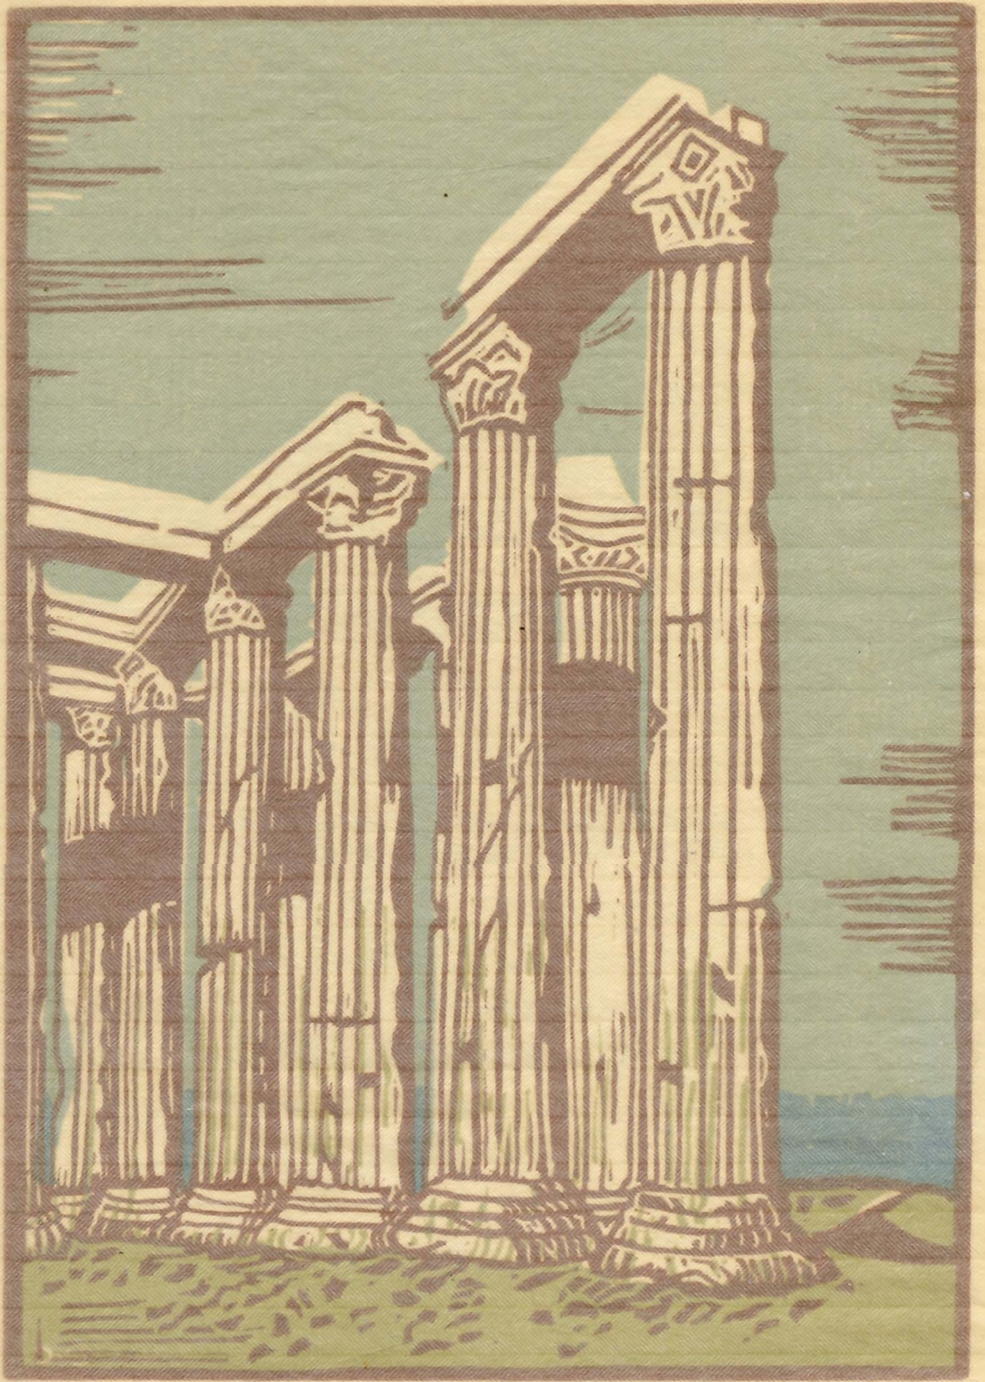

WE, the staff of the "Tokay" and the students of the Lodi Union High School, wish to extend our sincere thanks to the Lodi Business Men's Association for their whole-hearted efforts in soliciting for us the funds needed to make this annual possible, and to the people of the Lodi Union High School district for their generous cooperation in the undertaking.

To the high school band and its director, Mr. Sydney Halsey, we also express our highest appreciation for the true spirit with which they responded to the opportunity of aiding the "Tokay."

"May the gods protect our champions!"

The Lodi Union High School

W. H. CROSWHITE
President of the Board of Trustees

The Lodi Union High School in 1931-'32 enrolled 906 pupils, 265 of whom were transported in seven buses. Night school classes enrolled 147 others, Americanization, 260, and adult sewing classes, 136. The attendance at the open forum in the City Hall, for the year, totaled 1575. This enrollment came from seventeen districts, comprising the Lodi Union High School District, a territory approximately 200 square miles in extent.

Four buildings with bleachers and fields for athletics, constitute the school plant, valued at $590,000 and situated near the center of the union district. An auditorium with complete stage and motion picture equipment, offers seating capacity for over 1400. A main building affords space for classes in academic subjects, and for the library and office. A building for science, agriculture, and domestic arts, also provides a cafeteria equipped for serving students and teachers. Shops supply equipment for woodwork, farm and auto mechanics, and garage space for eight school buses. Two gymnasiums, a swimming pool, tennis courts, and play grounds furnish a means for developing and maintaining health and recreation.

The jurisdiction of the school is entrusted to five trustees elected at large from the union district: Dr. W. H. Croswhite, president, of Lodi; Mrs. Florence Featherston, clerk, from Justice district; Mr. R. J. Stuck of Woods district; Mr. C. Dexter of Houston, and Mr. W. E. Shipman of Alpine.

Alumni

The Woman's Clubhouse provided a lovely setting for the annual reunion of the Alumni Association of Lodi Union High School, with lavender and gold bouquets carrying out the colors of the Alumni Association.

The play, "Good Fishing," under the direction of Vernon Hurd, was very cleverly presented, with Mrs. A. J. Randolph, Howard Bailey, and Vernon Hurd in the cast. John L. Blakely, of the Class of 1900, delivered the address of welcome, and Lloyd Engel, president of the Class of 1931, responded. Miss Margaret Taylor, president of the Student Body for the year 1930-'31, was introduced, and roll call by classes followed.

The following outgoing officers were introduced at the business meeting: Amy Boynton, president; Esther Wencel, vice president; Stanley Jones, secretary; Alfred Gatzert, treasurer.

Winifred Beckman Jones is president of the Alumni Association, Howard Bailey is vice president; Willard Beckman, secretary, and Le Moin Beckman, treasurer.

GREETINGS

To the Class of 1932 I extend heartiest wishes for the best that life has to offer. May the events of your high school days recorded in this annual ever live afresh in your memories as a reminder of the joy and profit that you have experienced here.

The cordial response of the loyal patrons of the district who, by their special contributions, helped to consummate the publication of this year-book is the finest token we might have of the interest our community has in you. It should be a perpetual inspiration, and spur us all in every endeavor to return to our community that same spirit of helpful, cooperative service, so vital to the common good.

I covet for each of you a citizenship which will make your lives a positive constructive influence and power among your fellows.

*"Above all,—to thine own self be true;
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man."*
