JOKES

The students of old Lodi High
Are filled with much chagrin,
Whenever a man named Mr. Reese
Detention gives to them.

First Roman: "Who won the race today?"
Second Roman: "Cornelius did, but only because he had free-wheeling on his chariot."

There once was a young lady named Ella
Who came to school dressed in yella.
She was quite trim and neat
With a voice that was sweet
Claire said, "That's the girl for a fella."

A Cadillac was not running as well as usual, and, upon investigation, among other things, an Austin was found in the gasoline.

I CERDADLY HAB

I haba gold, alaz, alaz.
By poorhed eggs ad so doez by lagz
By eyes are bleary
By steb iz weary
Wheriz by hagerchif?
Oh, well, I stell cad snize.
Yes, az I was saying,
I hab a gold.

Miss Graham tried to explain to her classes that the "Missouri struggle" is not a dance, that a "pet bank" is not a place to take your girl and that a
"cotton belt" is not a piece of clothing.

PHYSICS

Oh, physics is the strangest course,
Or so it seems to me.
Why know how much some water weighs
Is more than I can see.
Or sometimes when we often feign
To play with odd machines,
We pump the air out of a tube,
Then pump it back again.
When I get older, then will I
Look back upon the times
I had in dear old Room S-1
Quicksilvering my dimes.

B. Acker (after a discussion in history): "Well, why don't they have polygamy now?"

Maurine Smith: "Say, the men have enough to do to handle one wife."

Mr. Knoles (meekly): "Yes, indeed; they have too much to do."

---

Miss Graham (to Donald Johnson, who thought there was to be no assignment): "You may read and report tomorrow this article, 'Hawaii Needs a Friend'."

Donald: "So do I."

DEFINITIONS

Mrs. Rice explains daily in history that the "era of hard feelings" doesn't refer to the end of the semester; "watchful waiting" isn't a description of the period just before cinch notices come out; "long truce" isn't the summer vacation; "stalwarts and halfbreeds" don't refer to seniors and freshmen; "mid-term reaction" isn't the effect of report cards; "Wilson's appeal to the people" isn't Martin's curly hair; "Luckless years" doesn't mean our four years in high school.

Just feature:

John Alden as a modern collegian.

Joe E. Brown in a Shakespearean drama.

Greta Garbo playing Pollyanna.

Ivanhoe as Buster Keaton.

---

Miss Graham: "Hm! I wonder if Clair's coming."

Ella: "Oh, yes, he's coming. I just heard his car."

WHAT! AGAIN?

I stopped, I turned, I looked, I stared,
And then my heart grew cold,
For sleep-walking near a pit of fire
Was little Leopold.

VERIFIED?

Miss Holm said
Three deep breaths of air
Will make your thinking keen,
But I took
Three deep breaths of air—
Alas, it was chlorine!
