HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1912

It seemed but natural that a class that had made such an illustrious record in preceding years should be exceptionally brilliant in its Junior year, for in literature, athletics and social activities we led the school. We continued our policy of social activities and also extended it to the Seniors by giving a number of most enjoyable dances, to which they were invited. As a close to our Junior year and as an appreciation of our regard for the Seniors, we decorated the assembly hall as it never before had been decorated.

Our Senior year opened with the election of James McMahon as our worthy president. In this year, the most glorious in our history, we have been instrumental in bringing school spirit to its greatest known height. Never before were such rallies, such teams, and such victories. First honors were carried off in the Forensic contest at Sacramento by our worthy representative, Marietta DuBois. But the greatest achievement came in our last year with the presentation of "The Rivals," the most successful play ever given by a local High School class. Our success was wholly due to the untiring aid of Miss Howell, and we pause here to again extend to her our sincere and everlasting gratitude.

Now as we stop to review those four delightful years of work and play, that have passed so swiftly by, we realize that with them have gone forever the opportunities, the victories and the defeats of our High School days. We begin to feel how strong are the ties of love and fellowship that bind us to our fellow students and to our school, and as we realize what these four years have done for us it is with a mingled feeling of joy and regret that we bid a fond farewell to the Stockton High School, ever remembering that "The road called toil leads to the city called Success."

STELLA HAMMOND,
LOIS OSER,
WALTER ANDREWS.

OUR IMPORTS.

It is said that a number of titled Englishmen are planning to visit America shortly. We are also receiving large shipments of lemons from the West Indies.

"I always was unlucky," he said with a weary sigh.

"What's the matter now, old man?" his friend asked.

"I've spent over $500 on having my boy taught to play the fiddle, and now his hair's all comin' out."

"There's only one way to make aviation safe," said the man who loves legal formalities.

"What is that?"

"Get some good attorney to prove that the law of gravitation is unconstitutional."

CLASS WILL

V.

To Wilson Wurster we do give the position of Class Saint, now held by Clarence Stevenson.

VI.

To Miss Howell, for all her great patience in coaching our class play, we bequeath our never ending gratitude.

VII.

Among other things, we have several books which we freely bequeath in the following manner, to-wit:

Firstly: "How to Become Thin," torn by force from Borden Pardoe, we do grant to Karl Ross.

Secondly: "My Secrets of Beauty," which was heretofore used by Mirabel Stewart, we do give to Hazel Rider.

Thirdly: Dutch Andrews' book of poems, entitled "My Kingdom for a Pony," we do bestow on Herbert Marino.

Fourthly: "How I Became Strong," now held by George Newton, we do give to George McCutcheon, and trust he may profit by it.

VIII.

To Walter Morse, we grant George Atherton's individual privilege of singing "I'm Glad I'm Married."

IX.

To Mr. Harrison we bequeath twelve bottles of Nervine, and trust he will use it rightly.

X.

To Mr. Kuhn we will one box of "Owl" cigarettes; also one pair of curling irons.

XI.

To Miss Hayne we will another twelve yards of baby ribbon, pink, however, this time, and trust she may find a use for it in restraining her pet canine.

XII.

We give Lucy Ray the title of class chatter-box, now held by Carrie Beaman.

XIII.

To an envied few who have at least an honest-looking face, the privilege of running a bill with the ice cream man.

XIV.

To next year's officers we do bequeath privileges and properties in the manner following, to-wit:

To Gilbert Patterson, as editor, we bequeath a serious face.

To Herbert Marino, the privilege of jingling money as did Nathan Sinai.

A certain company promoter once built a castle on a mountain peak. As he showed the gray, medieval-looking pile to a friend, he said:

"I don't know what to call it. What name do you advise?"

"It looks like those Scotch castles in the Highlands," said the friend.

"Why not call it Dunrobin?"

"Dunrobin? Dunrobin? Yes, that would be a good name," said the millionaire, "only, you see, I have no intention of retiring yet."—London Opinion.

October 19, 1920.

Miss Marietta Du Bois was supposedly married to a French Count this morning. Immediately after the ceremony he was taken into custody as an imposter, and proved to be none other than Theodore Finkbohner, an old schoolmate.

January 16, 1917.

Miss Erma Cramer is to leave this morning for Vienna, where she expects to study art.

November 10, 1920.

Miss Helen Clowes has just obtained a copyright for her latest novel, entitled "When I Was On the Farm."

December 24, 1921.

The Misses Eunice Condict and Lillian Daley have recently returned from a missionary journey in China.

June 3, 1922.

Mr. Neil Ferguson and Miss Gladys Fay were quietly united in matrimony this morning at the home of the bride.

September 9, 1922.

Under the headlines, "California's Famous Aviatress," appeared the picture of Miss Henrietta Contat. The account told of how she boldly pierced the air in her wonderful aviation stunts.

February 17, 1923.

Doctor Mildred Beattie presents her wonderful discovery, "How to Grow." Upon receipt of your name and address and two cents postage she will mail you free all her literature, including her wonderful secret.

ceremony will be performed by the Rev. George Newton of Lodi. Rev. Newton is an old schoolmate of the groom and will make the trip to Stockton to officiate. Mr. Alfred Holt, of Harvester fame, will act as best man. Misses Lois Keyes and Mildred Hughes, two of Stockton's society belles, will act as bridesmaids.

After having read that, Emma remarked that truly that was a class of 1912 celebration. She continued to say that since their marriage, Julius was holding a position with the French Camp Sausage Factory, and he and his sweet little bride are as happy as can be.

August 28, 1923.

This next one was truly one of interest. It read as follows: "The Good Government League announces the following candidates to be voted for at the next City Election. A vote for these men is a step to reform:

For Mayor—Sherwood Norton.

For Constable—Jas. Budd McMahan.

For Poundmaster—Edw. McCausland.

I was not in the least surprised to see Edw. on the reform ticket, but who ever thought Sher and Jim would pose as Reformers? You can't tell what Politics will do; it is simply a case of the old saying, "Politics makes strange bedfellows."

February 18, 1924.

Miss Mary Guernsey, the rich millionairess of Linden, has acquired control of the Linden Hotel and hereafter will conduct it strictly on the European plan. The hotel will henceforth be known as "Hotel Guernsey."

"It was only last week," said Emma, "that I caught sight of this":

March 8, 1927.

Misses Ina Hitchcock and Stella Hammond, singing and dancing artists, will appear at the Orpheum this week in a skit written by the late George Cohan. They have recently appeared in all the large cities of the East, where they have caused universal sensations.

"While they were in San Francisco," remarked Emma, "I took a trip down to see them, and with their compliments I was seated in the "baldheaded row."

"Ah! Another Suffragette."

Miss Ruth Mahaffey has been appointed as a delegate to the National Suffragette Convention to be held in Chicago in 1928.

"Little did I think Ruth would mix into politics."

"But she has," continued Emma, "and they say she bids fair to be a second Mrs. Pankhurst."

"Read this clipping from the 'Star,' a new paper that was recently started here: January 18, 1927. We are fortunate in securing the services of Miss Lillian Hough as our Society Editor. Miss Hough, who is a rising young lady of our city, is well qualified for her position.

Having completed the review of this scrap-book, we closed it gently and placed it on the table.

Miss Howell (quoting from Gray's Elegy)—What do we understand by "lowly beds" (meaning graves), Winthrop?"

W. S., '12—It probably means a pile of straw. They were too poor to have mattresses!

Spare, translating in Vergil the line, "per tata noveni cui ingera carpiis porrigitur" (his body stretched out over nine whole acres).

First. His nine bodies stretched over an acre.

Second. Nine acres stretched over his great body.

Then Newton came to the rescue and the line was smoothly, elegantly, superbly, faultlessly and magnificently rendered.

---

Mr. Britton (in Civics)—Miss Norton, what is meant by monometalism?

Miss Norton—The government gives free coinage for gold, but the Secretary of the Treasury buys all the silver bouillon.

The boy stood on the burning bridge,
His pony book in hand,
His little feet were blistered—
But his Latin, it was grand.

Pardoe—Say, kid, can I go through this gate to the river?

Little Kid—Maybe, a load of hay went through this morning.
