THE STORE

There is satisfaction—and protection—in the fact that whatever is sold under the name of this institution at whatever price must measure up to a high standard of excellence. For this store is known in the homes of its patrons by the furniture it sells; we never have been and never will be content to sell anything, under any circumstances, except that which represents the best value for the price you pay. On that assurance, make your selection with confidence; with firm faith in the assurance that behind the merchandise stands the unquestioned integrity of this institution.

THE PRICE

At this time, May 15, 1921, finds us reducing prices to a considerable extent, so price quotations are almost useless. However, at all times our prices are such that you will feel that you have purchased a real value at any time you make a purchase.

THE QUALITY

Our merchandise is of high standard. What we have kept in mind always is "Better homes for less money." This has proven a growth which has been rapid and permanent. The customer must be pleased and satisfied to be a permanent patron.

THE STYLE

There is great improvement in design in the last few years and you can now furnish a home in period designs at a very moderate price.

INVITATION

To call and see our store is always open. You will be shown every courtesy, whether you are ready to buy or not. Call and see.

“Bob Carr is the most absent-minded chap I ever saw.”

“What’s he been doing now?”

“This morning he thought he had left his watch at home, and then proceeded to take it out of his pocket to see if he had time to go home and get it.”

“But he doesn’t beat Pop Garrison who went out of his office and put a card on the door saying he would be back at three o’clock, and, finding that he had forgotten something, went back to the office, read the notice on the door, and sat down on the steps to wait until three o’clock.”

"Do you keep fountain pens?" inquired the timid looking man.

"No," snapped the clerk, "we sell them."

"Anyway," the man replied as he strolled toward the door, "you'll keep the one you were going to sell me. Good morning!"

The swain and his swainess had just encountered a bull dog that looked as if he might shake a mean lower jaw.

"Why, Percy Dolan," she exclaimed as he started a strategic retreat. "You always said you would face death for me."

"I would," he flung back over his shoulder, "but that darn dog ain't dead."

Tom and Bill were late for school and were called to account for it. "What made you late, Bill?" asked Mr. Berringer.

"I was dreaming I was going to San Francisco, and I thought the school bell was the whistle of the T. C. Walker which I was going on," explained Bill.

"You did, eh!" said the v. p. "And now, Tom, what have you to say for yourself?"

"I—I was just waiting to see Tom off."
