Probably a Patient

The doctor's small son was entertaining a friend in his father's office, and they were looking with awed admiration at the articulated skeleton in the closet.

"Where did he get it?" asked the small guest in a whisper.

"Oh, he's had it a long time. I guess maybe that's his first patient?"

Bless The Girls

These high school girls are a noisy lot.

I like 'em.

They make you blow all the cash you've got.

"Look Out!"

"Better keep your head inside the window," warned the conductor.

"I kin look out of the window if I want to," replied Fred S., with a wink to his fellow companions.

"Sure you can," answered the conductor, "but if you damage any of the ironwork of the bridge you'll have to pay for it."

Poor Horatius

Teacher—Do you remember Horatius at the bridge?

Frosh Girl—I don't think I met him. You know, we invite so few men to our parties.

Harry Lusignan (to one of the Myers' twins)—Are you yourself or your brother?

Wallace Myers—I'm my brother. What do you want to know for?

Wake Up

Shopper (looking at socks)—Aren't they rather loud?

Shop Assistant—Yes, sir. They are specially made for people whose feet are in the habit of going to sleep!

EYEGLASSES

The Word Fitly Spoken

"Shiver my timbers," squeaked the dance floor, as three hundred couples danced across it.

"Ah, whoa is mel!" said the horse as he came to a stop.

"I've got that down Pat," said Mrs. Flanagan, as she gave her son a dose of castor oil.

Tom Quinn (offering to share his umbrella with a girl during a storm) —May I be your rain-beaux?

"I must have some part of you to take with me," he cried as he pinched her cheek.
