12B SENIOR CLASS

CLASS FLOWER OF 1924

The 'angel of the flowers, one day
Beneath a rose-tree sleeping lay;
Awakening from a dream of love,
She gazed upon a flower above,
And said, "Thy name is Rose.

"What grace does not a rose possess?
What love does not a rose express?
No rival need a rose permit,
No shame must needs a rose admit.
Naught shall excell the rose."

Why envy we the fairest rose?
Why praise the flower in ponderous prose?
Why worship we its petals of red
When rivals blooming overhead
Declare, "Our name is Rose?"
