

THE SPANISH TANGO
A LA CARR-GUNTHER

FROM

"THE RED MILL"

SIDE VIEW OF HALF OUR VALIANT SWIMMING TEAM.

CARLOS SOUZA CAPTURED
THE ZEIMER TROPHY
FOR . 1924.

SOMETHING TO BE PROUD OF!

STOCKTON
TARS UBJUGATE
UBURBAN
CUM!

THE SAD DAY ARRIVES
WHEN OLD S.H.S. MUST PART
WITH ITS BELOVED SENIORS.

Done by [unclear] for 25

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Executive Committee

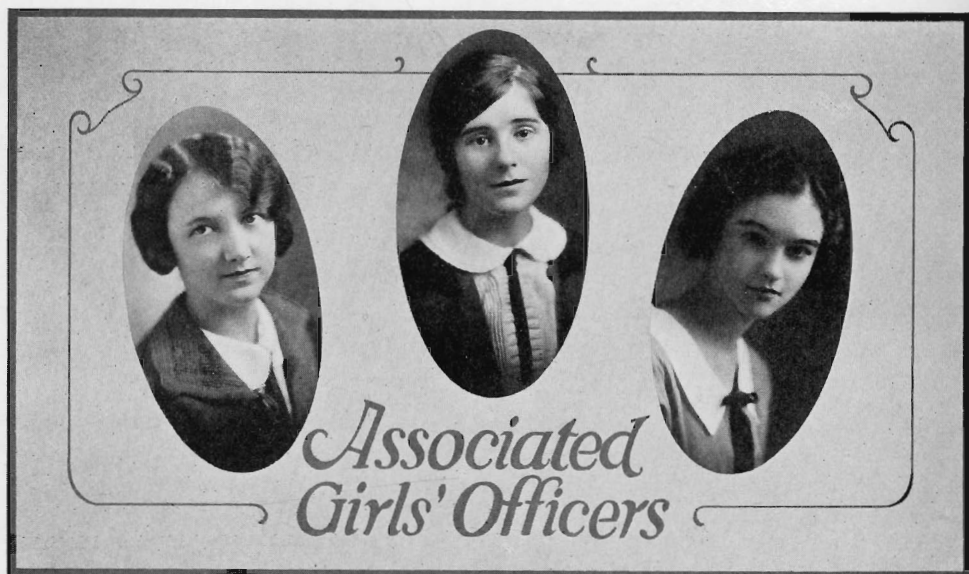

A busy year with some changes in the personnel, which have made it somewhat hard to function, has been the fate of the year's Executive Committee.

Contrary to the customary plan, "Tacky Sirkus Day" was held in October and netted the school treasury about $290. Since fewer basket ball games were played here this year, the funds from this sport were considerably less than those of last year. A High School Night was held in December at the "T. & D." theater for the purpose of getting money for the Guard and Tackle annual. The sum of $200 was raised.

The committee loaned the opera $500 from its funds to pay all advance costs, such as the royalty, materials for scenery, and the costume rental. This amount was to be repaid after the receipts from the production were in. This was not an accomplished fact when the annual went to press. By an agreement with the senior class, the Executive Committee gave $300 to the Guard and Tackle annual, and the senior class paid the entire sum, $800, for the curtain in the new auditorium.

The members of the committee for the first semester were: chairman, Earl MacDonald; secretary, Philip Cavalero; faculty adviser, Mr. John S. Reed; editor, Lawrence Meier; senior representatives, Stephen Arata and Edwin Mayall; junior representatives, Melvin Belli and Dorothy Carrow; sophomore representative, Harry Berg; vice-president of the student body, Helen Parker; second vice-president of the student body, Edward Libhart.

In the second semester the following changes were made: Herbert Gunther was appointed chairman of the committee; Cyril Owen, senior representative, to take the place of Edwin Mayall who was elected short-term editor of the weekly Guard and Tackle; Mario Pigozzi, junior representative, to take Melvin Belli's place; Detlef Brown, sophomore representative pro-tem, for Harry Berg who was practicing baseball and asked for leave of absence; and Milo Hewitt, second vice-president. These appointments with the exception of the office of second vice-president, were confirmed at an election. Marion Tubbs was elected to fill this office.

GIRLS' ASSOCIATION

Varied indeed were the activities of the Girls' Association this year.

The officers for the year were: president, Dorothy Quinn; vice-president, Carolyn Kerrick; secretary-treasurer, Agnes McGee.

The constitution of the association was revised this year, and an advisory board of eight girls, one from each department of each year, was established to aid the president. Elections were also to be held in common with the student body elections.

A plan for adviser candy sales was tried and proved successful. The sales were held in the main halls, and different girls' adviser sections had charge each time, selling home-made candy.

The first freshman reception was held in October. An Egyptian dance with real mummies, vocal selections, a ballet dance, and a battle between the "long-hairs" and the "short-hairs" were all on the program.

An original play by Betty Coffin furnished the entertainment for the second reception held in March.

The regular monthly business meeting provided an opportunity for developing the talent of the girls through programs presenting recitations, music, and dancing.

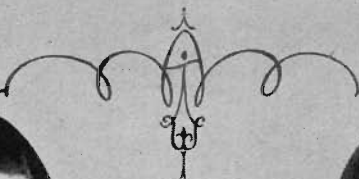

Since the girls are hostesses of the school, a resolution was adopted by which all guests of the school were entertained. Refreshments were served to debating teams and coaches and to other representatives of schools who visited.

The girls were active on committees for Open House Day and the Junior Red Cross work.

The dance-drama, "Through the Green Door," by Miss Elizabeth Hill, presented by the girls' physical education department, was perhaps the largest activity that was undertaken. It was entirely managed and presented by the girls under the direction of Miss Hill and Miss Bradstreet of the Physical Education Department.

BOYS'
STUDENT CONTROL

Two delegates, Dorothy Quinn and Helen Waite, accompanied by Miss McInnes, attended the Valley Federation of Girls' Leagues Convention at Modesto. Stockton was elected to choose the vice-president of the Valley Federation. Ethel De Vol was elected to that office.

At the time this book went to press there was nearly one hundred dollars in the treasury, and a party for the old people at the County Hospital was being planned.

STUDENT CONTROLS

Two new offenses, crowding in the cafeteria line and talking in the halls during periods, were added this year to the previous list that come under the jurisdiction of the Student Control Committees.

The Girls' Student Control had Helen Parker, first vice-president of the student body, for chairman and Margaret Manual for secretary. The other members were: Thelma Merritt, Margaret Macnider, Anna Erle, Dolly Mason, Alice Potter, Roblin Hewlett, Ruth Stiles, and Lenabelle Allen.

Edwin Libhart, by virtue of his position as second vice-president of the student body, was chairman of the Boys' Student Control for the first semester. In the second semester these offices were filled temporarily by Milo Hewitt and later permanently by Marion Tubbs. Lawrence Fay was secretary, and the remainder of the group were: Palmer Goldsberry, Robert Ganeles, Charles Gagnon, Edwin Hughes, William Roush, Donald Boscoe, Herbert Gunther, and Earl MacDonald.

SENIOR COUNCIL

An innovation outlined in the senior constitution, newly adopted this year, was an advisory board to be called the Senior Council, whose duties were to advise the president and to vote on a great many questions that had formerly been left to the president's discretion. The more vitally important questions were still left to the vote of the class. The senior council decided on two mottoes out of the many suggested ones to present to the vote of the class; they also submitted several colors from which the class chose pearl and rose. The council made arrangements for the senior dance and performed other useful functions.

One councilman from each senior adviser was chosen each semester. Palmer Goldsberry, the president of the class, was the chairman of the council. The personnel of the group the first half was: Urith Hurd, Gladys Nicholas, Robert Ganeles, Nicholas Mayall, Calhoun Reid, Marguerithe Dietrich, Margaret Manuel, and Alberta Reibenstein. The regular officers of the class were also members, including Beth Doane, vice-president; Calhoun Reid, secretary; and Lana Root, treasurer.

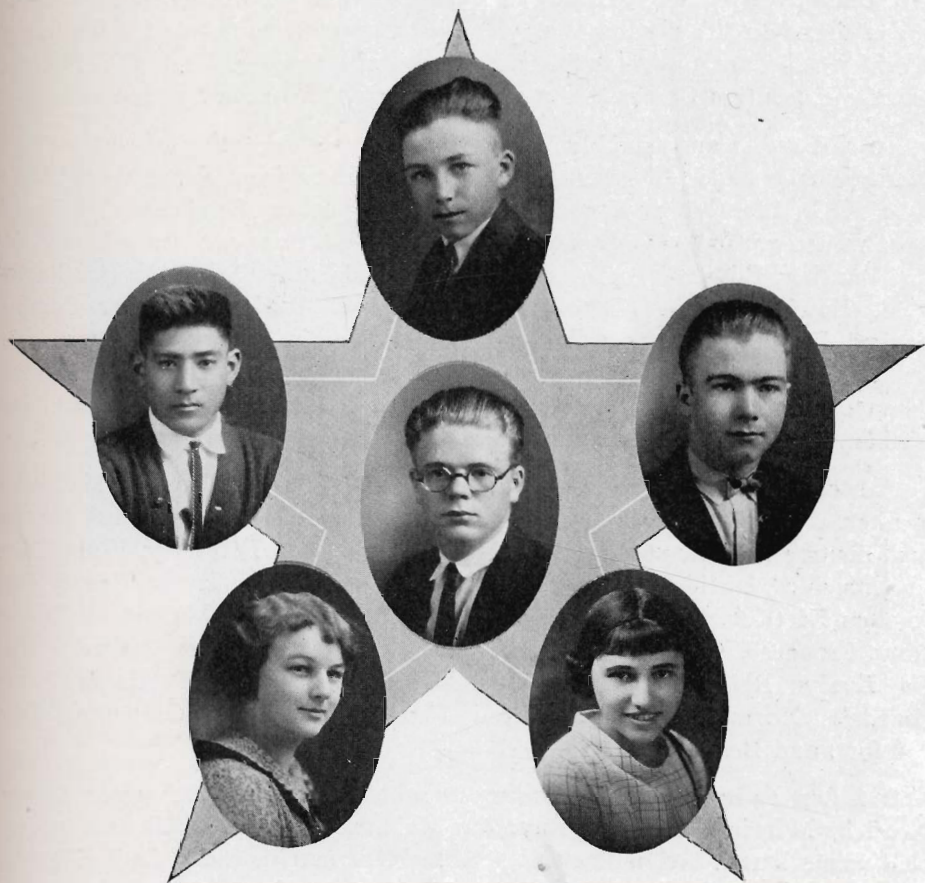

GIRLS'
STUDENT CONTROL

HONOR SCHOLARSHIP SOCIETY

Honor Students 1924

HONOR SCHOLARSHIP SOCIETY

Many and varied were the activities of the Honor Scholarship Society under the supervision of Miss Mary E. McGlothlin, faculty adviser. Nineteen amendments to the constitution relating to the awards of pins, seals, and other affairs of the society were passed. One of the most important changes was Amendment 18, which raised the eligibility for membership from seven to eight points with two points as a maximum in activities, raising the admittance to a total of ten points. The twentieth amendment provided that the manager of the circus on "Tacky Day" may receive two activity points for the quarter in which it occurs, and that the members of the Student Control Committees and the Executive Committee may also receive two activity points each.

In November an assembly was held for the presentation of certificates to all those who had held membership in the society from September, 1922, to June, 1923. Mr. George F. McNoble was the speaker of the day. The certificates were awarded to Gertrude Baumgart, Philip Cavalero, Elsie Dunn, Herbert Gunther, Edward Hughes, Helen Parker, Dorothy Quinn, Alberta Reibenstein, Edwin Mayall, Nicholas Mayall, Hazel Barker, Hosmer Comfort, Norene Daoust, Margaret Manual, Olive Morris, Gladys Stevens, Ethel De Vol, Sander Barron, Yvonne Goulding, Bernyce Ingersoll, Raymond Johanson, Rossi Reynolds, Iris Sears, Lucy Ritter, Lois Scantlebury, Jean Williams, Raymond Williamson.

A second assembly was held in April, 1924, with Dr. Forrest Maddox as speaker, also for the purpose of presenting certificates to all students who had been members of the society from February, 1923, to February, 1924. Those who received certificates at that time were: William Irvine, James Barr, Stephen Dietrich, Leslie Davidson, Sam Sherman, Paula Weinstein, Edward Fong, Frances Crevelli, George Dohrman, Robin Dunn, Clara Catherine Hudson, Evelyn Reid, Marion Richards, David Suzuki, Mae Petzinger, Ernest Lonsdale, Norman Parrish, Marion Van Gilder, Hoyle Carpenter, Jabez Comfort, and Bessie Iahn.

The first twenty students leading in scholarship this year were: Stephen Dietrich, Mervin Garibotto, Raymond Johanson, Paula Weinstein, Evelyn Reid, Elsie Dunn, Helen Parker, Alberta Reibenstein, Clara Catherine Hudson, David Suzuki, Ansel Williams Jr., Herbert Gunther, William Irvine, Ernest Earl Lonsdale Jr., Samuel Robert Sherman III., Hoyle Carpenter, Philip Cavalero, Ruth Fitch, Dorothy Quinn, Elise Dean.

On Tacky Day the society successfully conducted a hot-dog stand and thereby added forty dollars to the student body coffers.

The officers for the first quarter were: president, Herbert Gunther; vice-president, Olive Morris; secretary, Elsie Dunn; treasurer, Sam Osband; sergeant-at-arms, Stephen Dietrich. In the second quarter Herbert Gunther was re-elected president; Alberta Reibenstein became vice-president; Elsie Dunn, secretary; Philip Cavalero, treasurer; James Barr, sergeant-at-arms. The officers for the third quarter were: Herbert Gunther, president; Alberta Reibenstein, vice-president; William Trivelpiece, secretary; Ernest Lonsdale, treasurer; Mervin Garibotto, sergeant-at-arms.

PRESS CLUB

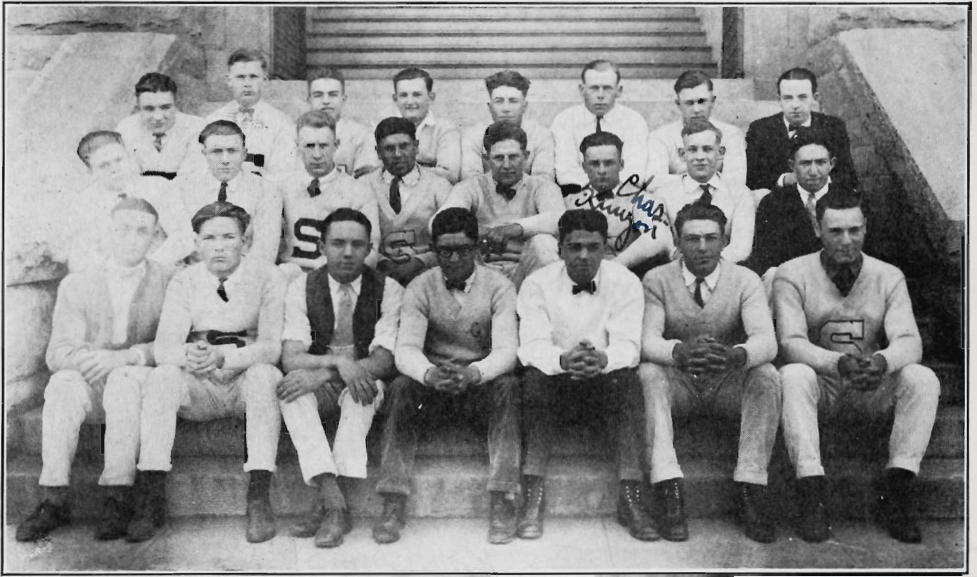

The re-organization of the Press Club after two years of inactivity was one of the accomplishments of this year. According to the constitution, its avowed purpose was "to raise the ideals and improve the quality of contemporary journalism, to learn more about journalism, and to increase appreciation of good journalism."

Besides this, the members managed to instill some fun and good times into the meetings. The first large activity, besides the regular monthly meetings, was a trip to Oakland on October 13 to attend a convention of the Typographical Union. A picnic on Lake Merritt was enjoyed by the group who attended, after they had viewed the printing exhibits in the Civic Auditorium.

"The Tack, The Paper With a Point," was a magazine published by the club on Tacky Day instead of the regular weekly "Guard and Tackle." It contained many clever features, and a sum of money for the club's treasury was garnered from its sale at ten cents per copy.

Setting the fashion in club banquets, which have been so much in vogue this year, the school journalists enjoyed a banquet in February in the school cafeteria, the centerpiece on the table being a typewriter surrounded by "copy" paper. Mr. Thompson, city editor of the "Stockton Morning Independent," was the speaker of the evening on the subject, "Journalism as a Career."

The charter members and officers of the re-organized Press Club were: William Whitmore, president; Calhoun Reid, vice-president; Catherine Humphreys, secretary and treasurer; Elizabeth Evans, Lawrence Meier, Jessie Hall, Dick Thomas, Clinton McCombs, Gladys Salter, Bob Harry, Ruth Ferguson, Marjorie Taylor, Clifton Frisbie, Mae Petzinger, Helen Waite, George Harkness, Dorothy Carrow, William Steinmeier, and Orrin Haynes. Members added the second semester were: Jane Willard, Betty Coffin, Louise Thomas, and Margaret Bishop. The roll was still open and probably not complete when the G. & T. Annual went to the press.

BLOCK "S" SOCIETY

The "Block 'S' Honor Athletic Society" began activities in January, after the football letters had been awarded, by electing the following officers: George Barsi, president; Ernest George, vice-president; John Triolo, secretary; Dan Triolo, treasurer; and Frank Rule, sergeant-at-arms.

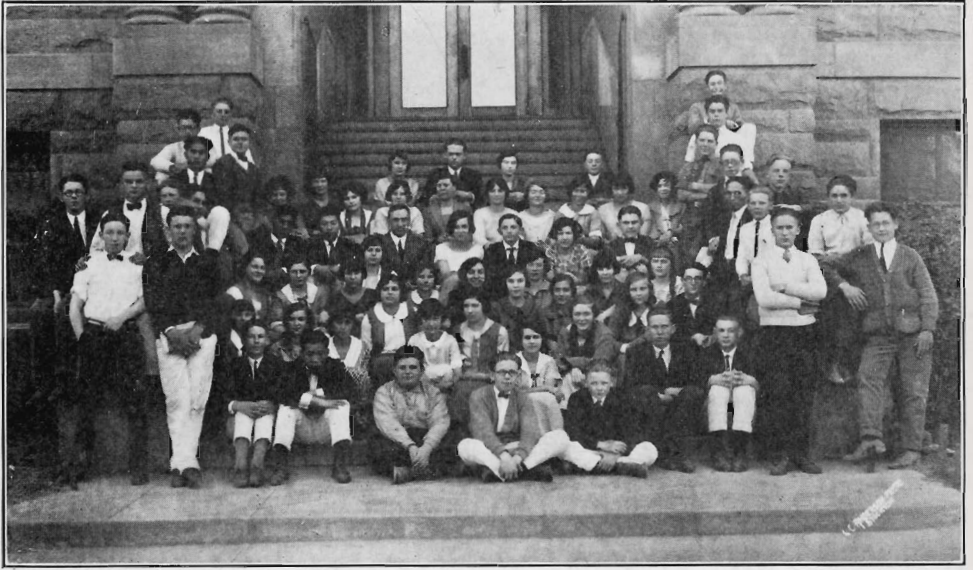

The other members of the society, all of whom won their letter for excellent playing in the majority of games in a Class A team in a major sport and who received the recommendation of the coach and the sanction of the Executive Committee, are: Carlos Souza, Ben Bava, Francis Gum, Orville Moyes, Archie Henry, Stephen Dietrich, Wallace Moore, Irving Pahl, Frank Rule, Clarence Bush, Stephen Arata, Emmett Johnson, Charles Wagner, George Jones, George Caviglia, Louis Sweet, Harry Berg, Pete Calcaterra, Charles Kenyon, Football Manager Albert Fessier, and Basket Ball Manager Lawrence Fay.

CIRCLE "S" SOCIETY

Circle S's were granted in January to all boys who met the requirements of the Block S award but who played in Class B teams.

Mervin Koster was elected president of this society; James Kimball, vice-president; William McCoy, secretary; Hosmer Comfort, treasurer; and Joe Peters, sergeant-at-arms. The other members, some of whom also had Block S's, were: Harry Berg, Burton Lamasney, Carl Witt, Robert Ganeles, George Woodruff, Earl Williams, Abe Bromberg, Daniel Clayberger, Charles Kenyon, Joe Guerrero, Herbert Clough, Lawrence Lerch, Raymond Johanson, Alvin Spencer, Earl Hawkins, Mitchell Oliver, Raymond Davis, Pete Calcaterra, Clovis Mallory, George Dohrmann, Emmett Johnson, Lee Scott, Merlin Waltman, Ernest Bernasconi, Francis Bowen, Jack Keagle, Huntley Haight, Joel Dolby, Attilio Parodi, William Woodford, Frank Berry, and Marion Tubbs.

LATIN CLUB

The fact that Latin still is a "live" language has been proven by Stockton High School's Latin Department in the maintenance of a club which possesses great vitality and activity.

"The Stockton High School Latin Club," which is now one of the largest clubs in school, has a membership list containing over ninety names of students at present studying Latin. Over half of the Latin Department belongs to the club, and every class from freshman to senior Latin is represented, while some classes have a one hundred per cent membership.

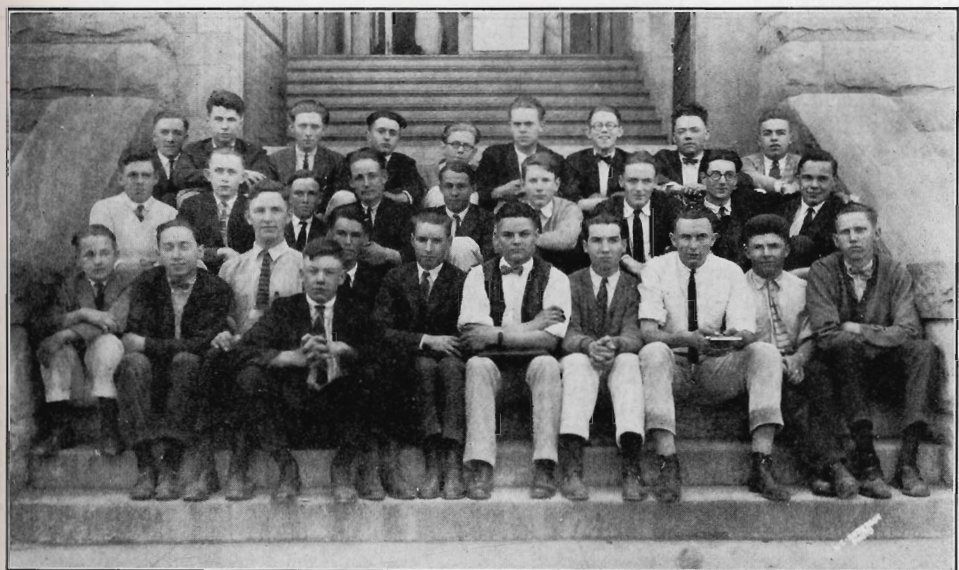

The time was when it was thought that to belong to the Latin Club, one must be a studious freak who sat up until the "wee sma' hours o' th' morning" probing into the secrets of Caesar, Cicero, or Virgil. But now a different attitude is taken by the students, and more and more interest is being shown at each meeting.

At the election in September a new constitution was adopted by which the club was authorized to have an election of officers twice a year. Those taking office in September were: Melvin Belli, president; Betty Coffin, vice-president; Marian Washington, secretary and treasurer; Joe Merchason, sergeant-at-arms; and Geraldine Graves, song leader.

The choice of officers in the second election, which was held in March, was: Betty Coffin, president; Dolly Mason, vice-president; Janice Dixon, secretary and treasurer; Detlef Brown, sergeant-at-arms; Richard Taite, song leader; and Jack Eagle, yell leader.

The Latin Club play, which was given May 23, had not occurred when this book went to press, but plans had been formulated and a successful achievement was anticipated.

The club picnic was the affair which probably gave the best time to the members of any of the club activities during the year. Delicious eats, frolicsome games, and amusing stories characterized the enjoyment of this event.

SCIENCE CLUB

The straining of human blood, the disintegration of the atom, human heart surgery, the Goddard moon rocket, obtaining power out of the air, all the principles of radio—these are some of the fascinating subjects which have been studied and discussed during the past year by the Stockton High School Science Club. In addition, many wonderful experiments that seemingly defied explanation were performed before the club.

The membership of the Science Club consists of thirty-one active members and eight associate members. A large percentage of the membership has always been present at the meetings, more than fifteen regular meetings having been held.

Last fall the club took an active part in making Tacky Day a success. Through the co-operation of the Science Department, it was enabled to present to the public a series of mystifying and baffling experiments.

In the early spring the club was given an informational intelligence test on science, and it was found that the members were exceptionally well informed on scientific matters.

On April 5 and 6, a group of some twenty-five members made a trip to Lick Observatory on Mount Hamilton. They were permitted to look through the large thirty-six inch telescope and were shown through the wonderful scientific library there.

The credit for making the club what it is today is due mainly to the conscientious work of its officers. For the first semester the officers were: Charles Crowell, president; Carston Grupe, vice-president; Philip Cavalero, secretary-treasurer; Langdon Owen, sergeant-at-arms; Charles Wagner, laboratory manager. During the second semester the officers were: Philip Cavalero, president; Lewis Fisher, vice-president; Nicholas U. Mayall, secretary-treasurer; Raymond Davis, sergeant-at-arms; William Irvine, laboratory manager.

DRAMATIC CLUB

After being out of existence for over a year, the Dramatic Club was revived under the direction of Miss Carrie D. Wright, drama teacher, at the beginning of the fall semester. The Dramatic Club had long been an active organization of the school, but had been merged into the Dramatic Workshop course. However, Miss Wright never felt that the Workshop entirely took the place of the club, because a great many students who were interested in dramatics could not enter the Workshop owing to conflicts in their schedules. Consequently, as an opportunity for all those interested, the club was re-organized. All of its work is done out of school with no scholastic credit given.

The club's constitution provides for monthly meetings and sets forth certain requisites for membership, which are: regular attendance at meetings, manifested interest in dramatics, and willingness to take part in at least one production during the year.

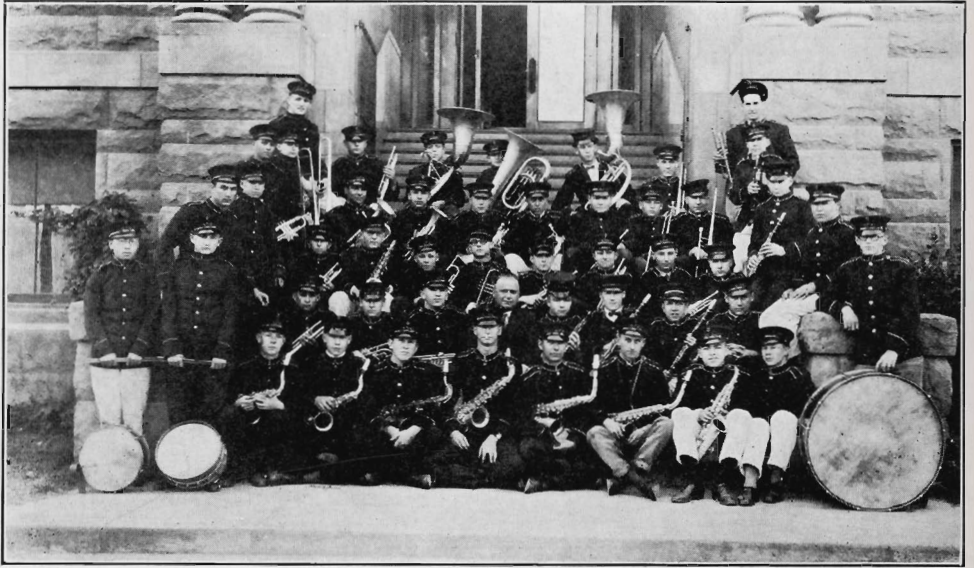

The officers for the year were: manager, Mario Pigozzi; assistant manager, Ernest Lonsdale; and commissioner of finance and records, Naomi Lewis. These officers have quite successfully carried out the plans of the club and have done a great deal toward establishing it as a permanent organization. The club presented for its members shortly before Christmas a play entitled "On Christmas Eve." There were eleven students in the cast, and it was coached by a member of the Dramatic Workshop, this making it entirely a student production.

CHES AND CHECKER CLUB

The past year was the first year of the Chess and Checker Club in Stockton High School. This club, under the leadership of Mr. Woodworth, a new teacher, was organized soon after school started in the fall, with Oliver Wisler as president and Alfred Cooke as secretary-treasurer.

It was originally planned to have matches with other schools and with the California or Stanford freshmen, but the membership fell off, and this plan was abandoned. However, a tournament was started to determine the best players, and Douglas Fuller and Andy Hayford became chess and checkers champions respectively. These students were called upon to defend their titles several times, and they were successful in keeping them.

BAND

Free concerts were the features this year of the band's activities. One concert was given for the public in March and was largely attended by an enthusiastic audience. It was repeated later for the school in the new auditorium.

The band was also invited to play in March at the dedication of the new Christian Church. A second concert was given in June and was as well received as the first.

All the band members wore the uniform coat and cap of blue at all their public appearances. Those who play under the direction of Mr. Andrew C. Blossom are: trumpet—Andrew Armanino, Clark Briggs, Harold Convers, Frank Jury, Donovan Moore, Elwood Potter, Joe Sweet, George Williams, Virl Swan; bass—Elmer Pound, George Woodruff, Hulet Rule; cornet—William Peck, Max Sweet, Oscar Breitenbucher, Shirley Crippen, Vernon Gentry; clarinet—James Barr, Wesley Edwards, Harold Rush, William Schneider, Irwin Wright; trombone—Wesley Dunlap, Eugene Root, George Barsi, Lowell Garrison, Stanley Barnes, Huntley Haight, Raymond Johnson, Clifton Morrill; saxophone—Milo Hewitt, Norman Hilton, Robert Ganeles, Stephen Dietrich, Harold Bradley, Frank Rule, La Verne Sanguinetti, Charles Wagner, Fred Bartlett; drums—Ralph Reynolds, Grove Thomas, Albert Cohn, Warren Kale, Jack Keagle; oboe—Hoyle Carpenter; alto—Harold Wenger, William Freitas, Earl Williams; baritone—Lowell Garrison, Herbert Clough, Hosmer Comfort.

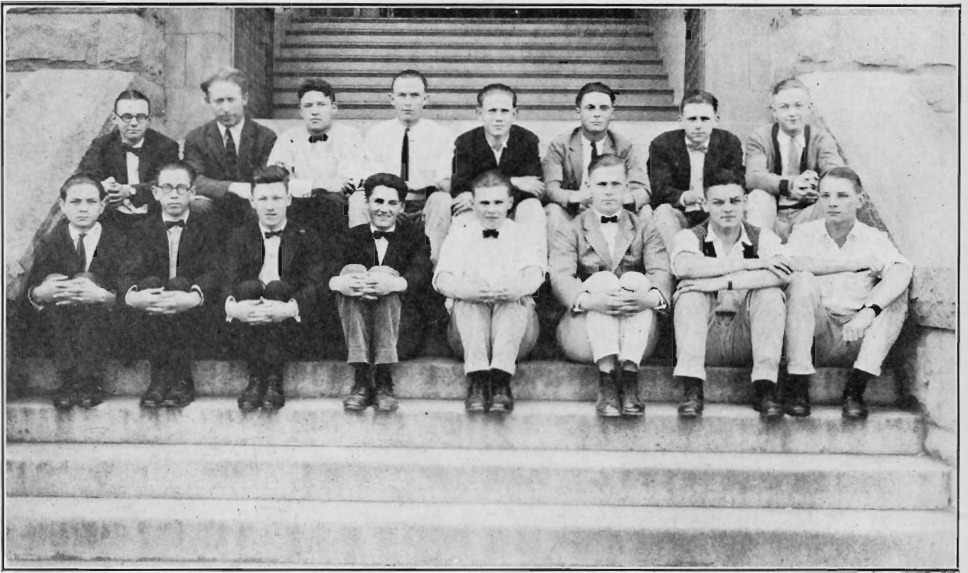

FIRST ORCHESTRA

Playing at all the plays and debates, and contributing largely to the success of nearly every public occasion was the orchestra's contribution to the school life of 1923-24. Among the larger events in which the orchestra assisted were: Senior Play, Open House Night, Mrs. West's Dancing Exhibition, Public Speaking Contest, "The Red Mill" opera, and the Freshman-Sophomore Oratorical Contest. This orchestra also appeared twice on programs of the Stockton Musical Club.

Mr. Holland Frazee had charge of this group. The members were: violin—Don Carr, Lois Drew, Dorothy Dupont, Charles Edwards, David Friedman, Martha Genser, Ferne Grummett, Dan Jordan, Dorothea Jurgensen, Treleaven Jury, Sam Kramarski, Alice Langville, James Luly, Frank Miller, Jennie Miller, Madge Mills, Georgina Reid, Mildred Reed, Mildred Cross, Errol Williams, Phyllis Threlfall, Arthur Sayles, Walter Schenewark; piano—Grace Barsi, Evelyn Newman; oboe—Hoyle Carpenter; clarinet—Irwin Wright; trombone—Lowell Garrison, Eugene Root, Clifton Morrill; trumpet—Joe Sweet, Cecil Arthur, Cecil Swan; cornet—Vernon Gentry; viola—Dorothy Ferguson, Donna Shaffer; cello—Pearl Shaffer; bass—Marjorie Ryland, Ardene Davis, William Freitas, Frank Rule.

GIRLS' ORCHESTRA

To prove that girls are as talented musically as are boys, a Girls' Orchestra was organized this year. Practice was held during the adviser period and later during a class period. This new orchestra played several times at Girls' Association meetings and elsewhere. The members and the instruments they played were: violin—Georgina Reid, Phyllis Threlfall, Martha Genser, Alice Langville, Vesta Jensen, Mabel Fern Maddox; cello—Nika O'Connell; flute—Dorothea Ryland; bass—Marjorie Ryland; piano—Grace Barsi.

BOYS' GLEE CLUB

JAZZ ORCHESTRA