Girls' League

Eva Celayeta

THE Girls' League had as its chief accomplishment the arranging of programs which develop and bring out the talent of the members. Officers for the year were Eva Celayeta, president; Clare Ellis, vice-president, and Dorothea Wood, secretary-treasurer. Eva Celayeta, Rose Gaviglia, and Miss Alice McInnes attended the convention at Tamalpais high school in October. The year's programs began with Nonsense Day in November, presenting a senseless play which kept the audience in gales of laughter.

In December, a program of Christmas music by the Troubadours and the Mu Zeta Rho trio from the College of Pacific was given. The dance pageant in February was colorful and clever, with the whole program moving swiftly and smoothly. International Day, in March, was unique. Students of different nationalities interpreted songs, dances and stories of their respective countries. In March there was a dramatic program, with the winners of the Shakespearian contest and others giving their selections. The Camp Fire girls presented the May program, which was unusual and entertaining, being a fashion show of garb to be worn at summer camps. In June, a Senior Day bade farewell to the graduating members, with an out-of-town speaker. The Girls' League assisted the Parent-Teachers' Association in the Mothers' Day tea on May 12.

The program committees for the year were as follows: Nonsense Day, November, Miss Eugenia Grunsky, sponsor; Jacquelin Kappenburg, chairman; Jean Rosenberger, Myrtle Keller, Elizabeth Prewett. The Christmas music program had for its sponsor Frank Thornton Smith, with Clare Ellis, chairman; Rose Shuster, Elna Louise Peterson, and Nancylee McPhee. The dramatics program was under the supervision of Miss Ida C. Green, with Adeline Read, Ralphyne Brady, and Dorothy Ferguson. Miss Lucile Halwick had charge of the dance pageant, a repetition of the program by her dancers given previously at the Fox-California. Virginia Hoessel was chairman, with Jessyln Pearson, Helen Rose, and Ethel Best assisting. Miss Elizabeth Humbargar was the director of International Day, with Grace Tow, chairman. The Camp Fire Girls' program in May was sponsored by Miss Emma Hawkins, with Ruth Fuller, chairman, assisted by Elizabeth Abbot, Anna Mae Snook, Barbara White, and Margaret Ritter. The Senior Day in June was under the supervision of Claire Kendall, chairman; Lois Johnson, Lenora Judkins, Genevieve Miller, and Bonnie Finkbohner.

Chris Cota

LAST fall the Junior Red Cross organization of this school acted as host to ninety-nine delegates from Junior Red Cross organizations in thirteen other centers of this region. The delegates were addressed by George T. Berry, director of the Junior Red Cross of the Pacific branch, who explained the purpose and plans of the organization. Golden

Miss Alice McInnes

Grimsley presided as chairman over the meeting, and Nancylee McPhee gave the welcoming address to the delegates. At a later date H. J. Hughes, legal adviser of the American Red Cross, spoke before members of the Junior Red Cross organizations. One hundred and eighty-seven boxes provided by adviser sections were sent to Guam at Christmas. Some two hundred menu covers made by art students were sent also. Twenty-three dollars was spent to provide a happy Christmas for needy students of this school. In March a spring meeting of the city organizations of the Junior Red Cross was held, at which the society of this school was awarded a banner for twelve years of uninterrupted service, and for being the oldest active society in the state. Penny Day was held every month to provide a fund in order to send a representative from this school to the National Junior Red Cross conference in Washington, but sending a delegate was deferred to next year. Fifty dollars was contributed to the National Childrens' fund. In May a special meeting was called to form a county council. Delegates from nearby schools attended and Sockton was elected president for next year's convention. Mrs. G. J. Berry, assistant national director of the Junior Red Cross, conducted the meeting.

Honor Scholarship Society

ON December 6, fifty-nine delegates representing six schools of northern California met here for the annual conclave of the California Scholastic Federation. The convention was the first to be held in this school since 1926. On April 18 a convention of the northern section of the Honor Scholarship Society was held at Sacramento. Hazel Laugh-ton, William Woodward, Alethea Tredway, Bob Blewett, and Miss Edna Rinset represented this school.

Honor Scholarship Society

Following a suggestion proffered by Miss McInnes, members of the service committee of the society acted as guides for the incoming freshmen and newcomers to this school at the beginning of the spring semester. Programs throughout the year were featured by talks from college men touching upon different courses offered, requirements and general information about Stanford, Pacific, and the University of California. For entertainment, local talent featuring unusual instruments was employed. Committees were maintained to attend to programs, business, and entertainment.

Membership in the society is on a semester basis, with eight points for curriculum studies and two for extra-curricular activities. Miss Elinor Malic, faculty adviser for two years, retired and Miss Edna Rinset succeeded her. Officers for the past year were, president, Barbara Kroeck; vice-president, William Woodward; secretary-treasurer, Alethea Tredway.

Hi-Y Club

Hi-Y Club

SPIRIT, Mind, and Body are the three planks in the Hi-Y platform. The club, composed of juniors and seniors, is sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. under the direction of E. M. Bunnell, boys' work secretary. The Hi-Y club has seventy members, and boasts of the best program of speakers to appear before any club of equal size. Among the speakers are doctors, ministers, professors, deans, coaches, school and college presidents, and former Hi-Y officers. Topics ranged from "Teeth" to "Modern Concert Organs." Fifteen Hi-Y members attended the Older Boys' Conference at Asilomar. Over one hundred participated in Californiad activities. A float built by Hi-Y members entered the Armistice Day parade, to represent the different boys' activities.

Among outstanding meetings of the year was "Varsity Nite," "Brick" Muller being the main speaker. The "Father and Sons" banquet went over with the usual success, as did "Varsity Nite." "Find Yourself Campaign," which Dr. J. O. McLaughlin and E. M. Bunnell directed, proved a marked success. Over 125 boys had conferences with 30 business men. "Kempy," a comedy presented by the Hi-Y and Tri-Y in April, was well received by the students.

Club officers the first semester were James Bainbridge, president; Wallace Wood, vice-president; George Capurro, secretary; Dale Ruse, treasurer; Ray McGlothen, sergeant-at-arms. For the second semester were Willard Hancock, president; Gay Rible, vice-president; Everett Leek, secretary; Francis Fisher, treasurer; Kenneth Miller, sergeant-at-arms. Bill Kerr is faculty adviser of the club.

Tri-Y Club

A Mothers' and Daughters' banquet given at the Y. M. C. A. was the high light in the year's work of the Tri-Y girls' organization. To liven this program, Miss Grace Martin, Rosemarie Franke, and Anita Warren presented a one-act play, "Where But In America," coached by Ralphyne Brady. For charity work, two parties, one at Christmas, and one at Hallowe'en, were given at the Bungalow school. To vary the meeting programs, personal, religious, scholastic and international problems were discussed. Reverend Ben Smith and Helen Blanchard, College of Pacific student, spoke at two meetings. The girls assisted in the Hi-Y play, "Kempy," with Anita Warren, Ralphyne Brady, Alice Peterson and Emelyn Dunne in the feminine roles. Another outstanding affair was a banquet given on faculty night at which Anita Warren sang French folk songs and danced the French gavotte in costume; Louise Sattui played an accordian solo, Jane Eicke gave a reading, and Nancy Lee McPhee sang "Reaching for the Moon," accompanied by Willa O'Neal. Miss McInnes spoke on "Maids of the Mist." Officers for the fall were Jane Eicke, president; Blythe Robertson, vice-president; and Ralphyne Brady, secretary. For the spring, Ralphyne Brady was president; Louise Sattui, vice-president, and Geraldine Scott, secretary.

Tri-Y Club

Social Service Club

Social Service Club

CONCLUDING a fourth year of service work, the Social Service has had a full program for the year. Over one hundred boxes filled with candies and cookies were made by the members for the old people at the County Hospital. At the time of the Red Cross Flower sale for the drought fund, members of the club sold flowers. A membership in the crippled children's fund is also held by the girls.

Every year, the club sends one girl to the Camp Fire summer camp for two weeks, as a part of their charity work. An interesting trip to the Health Center was also a part of the year's program for the girls.

Officers for the year were Jacquelin Kappenburg, president; Lucille Steinhart, vice-president; Genevieve Carlson, secretary-treasurer; Golden Grimsley, sergeant-at-arms. Miss Marilla Dunning is faculty adviser.

Pan Pacific Club

Pan Pacific Club

THE Pan Pacific Club, composed of one hundred members, is one of the largest in Stockton High. The purpose of the group is to create a feeling of friendliness towards countries of Central and South America, as well as the Orient and Islands of the Pacific. The members are taking or have taken Pan Pacific history. Latin America has many commodities that the United States needs, and Latin America needs our trade and capital; in a few words, "We Need Each Other." The old saying to young men was, "Go west young man, go west." The opportunities offered in South America change this admonition to "Go south young man, go south." Many American students go to South America every year, either for missionary work or for positions in some of the large cities.

Last semester Reverend Shade and his wife attended a Pan Pacific meeting and Mr. Shade gave a very interesting talk on Mexico. He told how the people are constantly improving living conditions, especially among the Indians. Mary Jones, field representative of the Red Cross, gave an excellent talk on the conditions in Samoa. She illustrated her talk with pictures, which proved very interesting to those who attended. John H. Landrum told the members about his trip to Mexico, and his various interesting experiences with the people of the southern nation. Wesley G. Young, faculty adviser of the club, planned a Chinese dinner as a "get-together" for all the Pan Pacific members and ex-members and officers.

The officers for the first semester were Daisy Neuman, president; Eleanor Mittenmaier, vice-president; Kathryn Hall, secretary-treasurer; Lloyd Coffin, sergeant-at-arms. Officers for the second semester were Elmo DeWhitt, president; Eleanor Mittenmaier, vice-president; Kathryn Hall, secretary-treasurer.

Quill and Scroll

First place in editorial writing in the Pacific Coast division of the national group contest conducted by the Quill and Scroll honor society was won by Avery Kizer in the fall semester. In January, fifth place in editorials was won by Avery Kizer, and Jane Eicke received honorable mention for feature writing.

In June 1928, the local Quill and Scroll chapter was organized. This society is now an international organization, with chapters in Europe, as well as in this country. Membership includes students of the weekly and annual staffs, who are in the upper third of their class scholastically, and who are recommended by the journalism faculty adviser as outstanding in the school publications.

The purpose of Quill and Scroll is to instill in students the ideal of scholarship; to advance the standards of student journalism by developing better journalists and by inculcating a higher code of ethics; to promote exact and dispassionate thinking, and clear and forceful writing.

Avery Kizer, Jane Eicke, Kenneth Endich, Carl Truex, Myrtle Keller, and Luella Geddes were initiated in January by Henry Schiffman, February graduate, the only member of the society who remained from last year. Kenneth Endich, president; Carl Truex, vice-president; and Myrtle Keller, secretary, were the officers elected for the spring semester. George Capurro and Howard McBride were initiated in April, with another initiation planned for June.

Quill and Scroll Society

Stockton Apprentice Class

THIS CLUB is formed by a group of some thirty boys who are classified as members of the student body. All members are apprenticed in different manufacturing establishments in town and report every week for classroom work in their particular line. They are paid for their services by these firms. The course is under the direction of Mr. J. M. Bond, and the boys receive instruction in machine shop practice, pattern making, sheet metal work, plumbing, electricity, boat building, and baking. During this year the club enjoyed many feeds and also journeyed to Sacramento to visit the state printing establishment. The classroom work that the boys received was arranged for them in order that they might benefit by practical use of the knowledge acquired. Individualism is important in all of the work that the boys do.

Boys' Science Club

Boys' Science

ABLY advised by Mr. Sanford Sweet, chemistry teacher, with Bob Stone at the presidential helm, a newly reorganized Boy's Science Club has written a brilliant page in its history. All attending the first meeting, on October 2, were regarded as charter members of the new organization, under a revised constitution. These members are Robert Stone, Robert Swenson, Marshall Dunlap, Ward Drury, Bertram Ryland, Nathan Damon, Jack Dozier, Bill Dozier, Jack Crowle, and Bob Blewett. A membership committee, composed of Nathan Damon and Alvin Levy, campaigned various science teachers for prospective members.

With the new members inducted, the club was working smoothly as an organized machine. A letter of sympathy was sent to the mother of Calhoun Reid, organizer of the earlier club, who passed away this year. Several interesting speeches accounted for large attendance. The speakers were H. J. Snook, on "Animals That Produce Light in the Sea"; J. C. Corbett, Arthur Everett, on "Cheap Fuel," and Ralph S. Raven.

Bob Swenson, vice-president, and Bob Blewett, secretary, played their part in forwarding the trips to the Crockett sugar refinery, and the Liquid Air Plant in Sacramento. The annual club picnic was held in the Sierra mining country. A vast amount of food was consumed, and an entertaining time resulted.

Philophysean Club

Philophysean Club

THE Philophysean Club is a group of girls interested in science; indeed, it was formerly called the “Girls’ Science Club.” Miss Myrtle Olsen and Miss Anna Lowrey, teachers of biology and physiology, shared the duties of adviser to the organization during the past year. Urilda Wade and Marjorie Jones shouldered the presidential position and were assisted by a competent cabinet. The activities of the club do not properly gauge the liveliness of it. Flower books were compiled by the girls, and they set up slides and exhibits for “Open House” night. Several speeches were made by members of the club on scientific subjects which they have studied. Parties to be held in conjunction with the “Boys’ Science Club” were planned, and one was given in the girls’ pavilion on Hallowe’en. The club is still in a growing state and new members are constantly being added to the roster. Plans for meetings and activities similar to those of the “Boys’ Science Club” are being made and will probably be executed during the coming year.

Key Club

Key Club

THE Key Club is a junior service club associated with Kiwanis, adult organization. It originated in Sacramento in the spring of 1925, and has since become nation-wide in scope. It is built upon the same lines as the older club, its constitution simulating that of Kiwanis International. The Stockton High School Key Club was organized in January, 1928, by the Stockton Kiwanis Club, the faculty adviser of this group being J. S. Reed. The objects are to promote a better appreciation among young men of the principles of the golden rule as applied by successful business and professional men; to promote better citizenship in school, city, state, and nation; and to promote altruism and friendship among young men and to serve our fellowmen. Only applicants with good scholarship, and good leadership qualities are admitted. Starting with the fall term, Al Rider, the new president, moved the club into the old bungalow, which has had its name changed to the Key Clubhouse. The rooms were remodeled and the luncheons became more pleasant in the clubhouse. In the spring term Elmer Esparcia became president, and Frank Wood, vice-president. A new regulation of dues was started to increase the treasury. The Easter vacation was used to paint the entire inside of the clubhouse, and all its tables. The first service rendered by the club was the sharing of its clubhouse with the Old English "S" society. Then these two clubs went together and put over the best program ever given to Kiwanis. Tacky Day the club put on the good old show of tossing cream puffs at its new members. The club's last meeting was at night in its clubhouse on June 16.

Sigma Eta Phi

Sigma Eta Phi

THE Greek meaning of Sigma Eta Phi symbolizes Skill, Honor, and Friendship. Such is the purpose of this club, formed of students doing co-operative work in the vocational department who are outstanding workers in their classes. Students enrolled in the co-operative department work alternate weeks down town to gain practical experience, and then automatically become members of the club. Sigma Eta Phi was organized at Stockton High School three years ago.

Glancing at the numerous good times that the boys have participated in during the past year, one easily sees that this club is one of the best organized groups of boys in the school. Most of the members have motorcycles, and many trips were taken. When snow frolics were at their height, the club journeyed to Long Barn. The boys attended two auto shows, one in San Francisco and the other in Sacramento. On motorcycles many members went to San Jose for the auto races. A basketball team was maintained also. The boys attended most of the football and basketball games.

Very fortunate is the club in having Mr. Ralph Herring, teacher of related subjects, as their adviser. Mr. Herring had an active part in scout activities in some thirteen scout camps. Officers of the club for the last semester were Glen McGill, president; Lennis Tupper, secretary; Albert Kopping, treasurer; Jimmie Miniaci, vice-treasurer; Carter Tyler, sergeant-at-arms; Everett Williams, photographer; George Miller, athletic manager; and Jack Crampton, entertainment manager.

Woodcrafters

TO ENCOURAGE friendliness and co-operation among class members and teachers; to build school spirit and appreciation of Stockton High School; to promote interest and efficiency in wood craft, and to make possible, by an annual field trip, the study of the trade in the community as well as in the school, these are the aims and purposes of this group of boys of the vocational department called the Woodcrafters. Any student enrolled in the vocational mill class is eligible to membership.

Dues of the club are fifty cents a month. On the day before the club goes on its annual field trip, the entire amount paid in by each boy is returned to him in order that all boys will have sufficient finances for the trip. At present there are nineteen members. Ira L. Van Vlear, teacher of joinery, turning and cabinet making classes, is the sponsor. During the Easter vacation a delegation of officers went to Bret Harte Sanatorium at Murphys, to visit one of the club members who is confined there. Officers of the club are the following: president, Marion Gorley; secretary-treasurer, Bob Westphal; sport manager, Glen Holt; reporter, Earnest Sutton.

Woodcrafters

Golden Hoof Club

THE GOLDEN HOOF club is an organization of vocational agriculture boys whose object is to become well trained, practical sheep men. The ten boys own and care for a flock of nearly one hundred pure bred Rambouillet sheep. They plan to carry on the project cooperatively for five years. The instruction work is under the direction of Mr. J. Mitchell Lewis, and the club's advisory board includes twelve of the most successful sheep men in California. The sheep specialists of the University of California assist in directing the work.

The New Zealand Club

This is a domestic rabbit club patterned on the same plan as the Golden Hoof Club. The ten members own and care for a modern rabbitry at the high school practice farm.

The Reiman Club

This organization is a turkey club of ten members, on the same plan as the Golden Hoof and New Zealand Clubs. The members are building up a flock of pure bred turkeys at the high school practice farm.

Model Aviation Club

Future aviators of sunny California have organized in this school, forming the Model Aviation Club. Members of this club have occupied themselves in building models of various types of airplanes. Once a month a contest was held in the civic auditorium in which applicants tried their models out for endurance records. All boys had to have flying models to join the club. Business men of Stockton have cooperated by offering silver cups as prizes to winners of the monthly contests. Business firms providing the cups were Turner Hardware Co., Glick's Jewelry Store, Friedberger's Jewelry Store, Kuechler's Jewelry Store, and the Fox Theatre. The cups were presented at the Fox Theatre during performance.

The contests held in the Civic Auditorium were sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. under the auspices of the American Model League of America and were open to citywide entrants, including grammar school students. The Model Aviation Club met every Saturday evening in the armory. The faculty adviser and sponsor of the club is M. D. Taylor, instructor in the vocational department. Prominent as producers of good flying models were the following members: Emery Lindberg, Ernest Lindberg, Truman Smith, Chenoweth Barnes, Kenneth Root, Robert Peckler, Joseph Downey, Jimmie Moreing, Burnel Pankey, Ernest Carpino. Officers were Emery Lindberg, flight commander; Robert Peckler, lieutenant commander; Chenoweth Barnes, secretary-treasurer.

Madrigals

THE Madrigal Club, which was organized to foster interest in music, is made up of twenty-two girls, who, under the supervision of Miss Virginia Short, gave programs at the Childrens' Home and at the hospitals. Valentines were given to the children at the county hospital by the members of the club. On June 3 the Mothers' Tea was given. A musical program was presented before the mothers and teachers who were invited.

The main source of their study this year has been American composers. Various reports are given of the lives of the different composers and types of music, at their regular meetings. The history of music, ranging from the earliest times, down to the present day jazz, was also included in their study.

The president for this year was Alethea Tredway, with Genevieve Miller acting as secretary.

Madrigals

Latin Club

Latin Club

THE CLUB, to the lay, the Latin Club, to its members Conventus Latinus, may repeat its gala year when the birthday of Vergil is celebrated some thousand years hence. This, however, is only a possibility, since the talent of Miss Lillian Williams, the ambitious faculty adviser; Ralph C. Hofmeister and his humorous travel tales; Dr. Tully C. Knoles, Latin “fan” extraordinary; and other notables who have so unselfishly contributed to the success will be crumbling to dust under marble obelisks.

Henry Schiffman presided during the first semester, while Jack McFarland shouldered the secretarial and financial duties, with Park Wilson, sergeant-at-arms throughout the year. Francis Jacobsen was elected president upon the expiration of Schiffman's term in February.

Latin Club

The features of the fall semester were a talk on Vergil's birthday by Dr. Tully C. Knoles, and a Vergil play presented by the senior students. The Saturnalia, Latin equivalent for Christmas, was celebrated by an exchange of small gifts among the members.

Mrs. Raiola, tour conductor, presented a very graphic description of Pompeii and excavations there. Ralph C. Hofmeister, freed from classroom duties during the first semester, returned with humor-flecked tales of stony piles in foreign lands. The College of the Pacific invited the assistance of members in the production of a play, and received hearty response. Taken as a whole, or in individual programs, the Latin Club's Bimillennium Vergiliannum celebration should echo through the annals of Conventus Latinus for years to come.

Italian Club

Louise Minaglia

OF THE four years that the Italian Club has been organized in this school, the activities in the past year have been most successful. The ardent work of Mr. Luigi Vannuccini, faculty adviser and sponsor, has succeeded in making a name for his club. The membership has increased from an apparently insignificant number to some two hundred students, and now the Italian club is one of the largest in the school.

From a report of the teachers' association, the attention of the school department of Italy was called to this organization. Its merit has assured the cooperation of the school department of Italy in order to better relations between Italian and American students in the field of music, literature, and art. Already the Italian Government has forwarded several valuable maps of Italy to aid Mr. Vannuccini in his teaching. In addition, prizes such as medals, books and scholastic awards have been offered as inducements to students in this school in order that they might make the most of their study of Italian.

For outstanding activities during the past year the Italian Club certainly deserves to be commended. All meetings have been well attended and programs were well received. The officers have obtained the best of school talent to provide entertainment. The third Annual Italian Club Night was successfully held. Louise Minaglia was president, with Mary Basso as vice-president, Josephine Delucchi as secretary-treasurer, and Frank Tassano as sergeant-at-arms.

Italian Boys

French Club

French Club

TALKS of interest on famous French people were given at several of the later meetings of the French Club. French art as told by Louis Tad Shima, the composers of France, named and discussed by Alethea Tredway, and Madame Curie, the famous discoverer of radium, as told by Barbara Kroeck, occupied the programs of three meetings. “Marraine du Guerre,” a play, was given at the last meeting. The talks at the previous meetings were given because the majority of the club’s members are freshmen and sophomores who cannot understand the program if it is given entirely in French.

Officers for the year were Parker Wood, president; Jean Brandt, vice-president, and Bob Briggs, secretary.

French Club

Spanish Club

Spanish Club

SPANISH Club activities for the past year have been very successful. The meetings were well attended and school talent furnished excellent entertainment each time. To provide the varied programs, different teachers were in charge of the meetings. Miss Adeline A. Selna, faculty adviser of the club, coached a play, "El Chaleco Blanco," which was presented before the club. Members of her 12B class and other Spanish students performed. The first Spanish Nite was held in May. The music department contributed with the orchestra and Troubadours, and "El Chaleco Blanco” was repeated. The program was open to the public and many Spanish people were in attendance.

Spanish Club

One of the club programs featured a talk given by Miss Anne Marie Bach, teacher of Latin, German, and Spanish, who recently took a trip to Europe, Spain, in particular. For Tacky Day the club put on a bull fight. Officers for the past year were the following: president, Stewart Cureton; secretary, Donald Harrington; treasurer, Shirley Jones; sergeant-at-arms, Douglas Nelson.

German Club

German Club

THE German Club has perhaps appealed to the senses of the students more than any other. It has appeared in plays before the assembly, its products have been tasted (iced root beer on Tacky Day) and smelled—oh, yes, the limburger sandwiches. Francis Jacobson occupied the presidential chair for the past year, while Barbara Kroeck was secretary-treasurer. Alfred Pennini was vice-president for the first semester, and Bob Swenson took over his duties the second half. The first meeting was called and conducted entirely in German. The Kroeck sisters entertained with German folk songs, and Elizabeth Passovoy played a flute solo. At other meetings Bob Swenson appeared as the famous Professor Schnitzel; Miss Bach told of the Oberammergau play and her travels through the fatherland; Professor Gieske of the College of the Pacific told, in his quaint, interesting style, of the life in Germany; Morris Silverman and Lulu Gregg gave a dialogue which provoked much mirth; the Girls' Glee club sang for the Deutsch. The annual Christmas party exuded merriment and song. A scrap book was kept of the activities, officers, and entertainments of the club.

Chinese Club

Chinese Club

TO PROMOTE a better feeling towards co-operation in order to take full part in social and school activities is the purpose of the Chinese Club. To belong to this club, one must be a Chinese student here at school.

Meetings were held on the first and third week of every month. On International Day, girl members of the club, dressed in their native costumes, sang several musical numbers. All of the members were active, and excellent entertainment was provided for all meetings. A picnic and a social were also held.

Edward Ah Tye was president of the club for the fall semester, and he was succeeded by his brother, Howard Ah Tye, for the spring term. Alyce Wong was vice-president; Nellie Lee was secretary-treasurer. A program committee was composed of Annette Yick, Ray Wong, and Young Wong. Ralph S. Raven, biology teacher, served as faculty adviser of the club.

Japanese Club

Japanese Club

DURING the past year activities of the Japanese Club have been very interesting, and membership has practically doubled. On International Day the club contributed with a dance given by members dressed in native costumes. Entertainment at the meeting was well received; it included singing, games, and musical selections, all produced by local talent. Following a plan suggested by Miss Elizabeth Humbargar, faculty adviser and sponsor of the club, speakers were obtained for some meetings. Business men came before the club and spoke on various subjects. This plan is to be carried out in future years.

A picnic was held as well as graduation parties for mid-term and June graduates. Pins were sold to all members of the group. For Tacky Day the club had a side show depicting home life of Japanese families. Various kitchen utensils and Japanese dolls were placed on exhibition. Officers for the past year were, president, Walter Futamachi; vice-president, Katsuto Nagai; secretary-treasurer, Marian Nakashima; historian, Theodore Mirikitani; publicity, Grace Yamaguchi.

Filipino Club

ONE of the liveliest foreign clubs in the school is the Filipino Club. Under the able direction of Miss Catherine Humbargar, adviser, the islanders have made a real effort toward making their programs interesting and entertaining. At the first meeting, Antonio Gacossas was installed as president, with his fellow officers, Asuncion Guevara, secretary-treasurer; Eulalio Aguinaldo, vice-president; Guillermo Guevara, sergeant-at-arms. Each member is required to pay regular dues, and the club holds religiously to this manner of raising funds for various activities. Many books were presented to the library by the Filipino Students' Club, and a number of pamphlets on questions of interest to the members.

Second term officers were Policarpio Fader, president; Conchy Arca, vice-president; Asuncion Guevara, secretary-treasurer; Magno Cavreros, sergeant-at-arms. Representatives of the club entertained the College of Pacific students with native songs and dances in costume. Later in the term Mr. Agullana, of the College of the Pacific, spoke to the club and read an article entitled "Seven Marks of an Educated Man." During the last few weeks of the term, all members of the club were busy on plans for a bigger and better Tacky Day.
