Freshman's Terse Narrative About Elijah

There was a man named Elijah. He had some bears and lived in a cave. Some boys tormented him. He said, "If you keep on throwing stones at me, I'll turn the bears on you and they'll eat you up." And they did and he did and the bears did.

A "Light" for the Study of French

Say! Girls! I will tell you a secret
It's something you really should know;
And if you are sure you can keep it,
In "savoir francais" you will grow.

Experience taught me this wisdom—
And so I assure you it right is—
If you wish to get real French accent,
Acquire——acute tonsilitis.

My First Poem

After many hours of labor,
And many sighs and moans,
And many exclamations,
I finished my first poem. —

After reading it all over
It sounded so good to me,
I thought everyone would be glad to know
That a poet soon I'd be.

Oh! how glad I was that morning
When English period came;
I wasn't very nervous,—
I was sure that I'd win fame.

As I rose to my feet to read it,
I saw in huge letters of flame
My name—"Elsie Carmody, Poet,
A new aspirant for fame."

But when I'd completed the reading
A long breath I tremblingly drew.
Fell silence; then horrors! All groaned out,
"Thank goodness! At last she's got through!"

Elsie Carmody, '27.
