

JUNIOR CLASS

Class Officers: A. Braden, Vice President; J. Field, Treasurer; D. Webber, Secretary; H. Lish, President.

Mr. Crossfield and two members of the banquet committee.

There seems to be a tendency for the Junior Class to outshine all the rest, as far as activities go. And this year was no exception. Their fine production of "Professor, How Could You" was only the beginning of their activities. After the make-up was put away and the sets taken down, they turned their talents towards cutting crepe paper and painting murals to carry out the theme of their Junior Prom. No more had they finished cleaning up after the dance when they accepted the responsibilities that are involved in making the Junior-Senior Banquet a big success. Participating in the annual Red and White football game ended their activities. With the full co-operation of all the members of this class in staging their successful activities, this versatile class ended their year full of success and enjoyment.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

T. King, president; B. Curtis, secretary; J. Kenoyer, vice-president; S. Hines, treasurer.

Besides being one of the most intelligent groups, judging from their membership in C. S. F., this year's sophomores also tip the scales as the largest class in school. They have been represented in almost all fields of sports and have taken active parts in many of the programs sponsored by the student body.

Their Christmas dance will long be remembered by the large crowd that attended. And the dance committee will probably never forget the mad scramble to get up all the decorations, wax the floors, keep their pop away from the annual staff and keep Santa Claus supplied with enough balloons.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Class officers: Left to Right: Billie Agee, Secretary; Gail Gooch Treasurer; Jean Allen, Vice-President; Lamoinne Fields, President.

The strong in heart who survived the mad scramble of registration and the hectic first week of school, finally settled down to being just lowly freshman. It was not long before they were right in the swing of school activities, giving the first big dance of the year. If they go through the next three years with as much enthusiasm, the Class of '54 should be one of the best.

Joyce Lind, Big Sister Chairman, introduces three new freshmen to their next class.
