Miss Kate -

It's been fun having you as my Journalism teacher
the past year, and even though I received only C's and d's I must admit that you did provide for me many chances in journalism. If you had to send me to get that story about the American River Riders Jimmie Dill from winning the State Championship at Stockton last October '54, I wouldn't be writing "Mans and Jail" today, or be a member of the River Riders myself. There's only one thing about that story; the main reason why I became interested in the River Riders was because I became interested in Pat Coan. And she's going steady with someone else!!! Well, anyway it was and I will always remember that 15 hours P.S. Day I'm going to write that biography
of your adventures.

Well, Miss Lake,

It looks as if I have survived this year, at San Juan, with know ill effects - Not too many any how - ^{Ha}_{Ha}

It really has been loads of fun working under a swell person like you.

Out of all the teachers I've ever had I really think you are tops!

You seem to have a certain way with people (uhum) that makes them want to really work for you. - One thing I really admire in you is your jolly good moods. I must say I've had quite a few good laughs with you.

It has really been knowing you, Miss Lake, and I am looking forward to working for you next year.

Your friend
Charles W.

GREENBACK NOTES

51-52

FAIR OAKS, CALIF.

For fourteen years we know that the Yearbook staffs have wanted to dedicate their book to their adviser, Miss Miner. For fourteen years of modesty, Miss Miner wouldn't let them, saying, it wasn't right. Well, this year's staff didn't pay heed to her arguments and went ahead and dedicated this book to the most deserving (we think) person for this honor.

FOREWORD

Gail Ekstrom

Joe Duren

Rollie Bliss

Editors: Rollie Bliss and Billie O'Brien.

Ronald Allbee

Staff

- Mary Lou Follis
- Jerry Jansen
- Harold Lish
- Marilyn Neuman
- Billie O'Brien
- Earl Rohland
- Helen Zanetta

Business Manager: Gail Ekstrom and assistant Sue Bibb.

Harold Lish, Layouts; John Knapp, Junior Editor; Ron Allbee, Sports Writer

Mary Lou Follis, Snaps; Earl Rohland, Photographer; Joyce Allen, Snaps.

Marilyn Neumann, Girls' Sports; Bob Fahey, Photographer; Joe Duren, Boys' Sports; Helen Zanetta, Girls' Sports.

The original bedlam had nothing on this year's staff what with the corny jokes of Bliss and Jansen, the shrieks of anguish from business managers Ekstrom and Bibb, the groans from the sports departments, and the continual cracking of Miss Miner's whip.

Actually, this year has been a riot of fun, and we do mean a riot. We hope the student body enjoys reading the book as much as we enjoyed publishing it.

Ruth Adele Quinn and Jean Culbertson, co-treasurers.

With many important duties on its program this year, the Student Council did a fine job with the many problems which confronted it. A great deal of business and many functions are entrusted to the Council.

Among some of the activities which the Council undertook this year were these: Aided in drives for the Red Cross and the March of Dimes, planned a very successful "Sock Dance", attended many conferences, and planned Student Body Programs. These activities, not to mention the numerous meetings which were held to discuss and plan the student affairs, helped to round out a very successful year.

Awards

Scholarship To those of us who have never had enough A's and B's to become honor students, Janie Lambert is somewhat of a genius. But Janie has never let her surplus of A's go to her head nor forgotten how to have fun.

Football

Don Braden, captain of last year's football team, was always an inspiration to his teammates whether they won or lost the game. Don possessed that remarkable ability to keep cool and collected against the roughest competition.

Thespian

This year's best Thespian was Gail Ekstrom. Gail's vivacious stage personality added flavor to many of the school and class plays. She not only devoted time to actual play production but also spent many tedious hours doing work back stage.

ards

Science

Amid test tubes, Bunsen burners, and explosions, Barbara Stover out-classed all of her boy competitors for this year's science award. The scientific lads gallantly subscribed to the fact that Barbara made the old lab a nice place to be.

Basketball

Fast thinking, quick moving, and hard driving gave Paul Shields the basketball award. Paul has been active in basketball for four years and is known around the gym for his good sportsmanship.

Girls' Sports

Taking top honors in Girls' Athletics, Phyllis Carter spent most of her extra curricular time on first string girl teams here at San Juan. Aside from the active participation in sports, she worked tirelessly for the Girls' Block and G. A. A.
