INTRODUCTION

R. L. Polk & Co., publishers of more than 700 other city, county, state and national directories, presents to its subscribers and to the general public this 1930 edition of the Stockton Directory, which also includes directory of San Joaquin County as well as rural free delivery box holders on routes which are pivotal from the Stockton Post Office.

Confidence in the growth of Stockton and its wealth, industry and population as well in the advancement of its municipal and social activities will be created as sections of this directory are consulted, for truly the directory is a mirror reflecting Stockton and San Joaquin County to the world.

The enviable place occupied by R. L. Polk & Co.'s directories in offices, stores, libraries and homes throughout our country, causes the publishers to forecast the belief that the Stockton Directory will fulfill its mission as a source of authentic information of any and every kind pertaining to our city. With an unrivaled organization having the courteous and hearty cooperation of the business and professional men and residents, the publishers feel that the result of their labor will meet with the approval of every resident of the city.

Population

The estimated population of Stockton is 52,735, based on the number of individual names in the alphabetical section of the Directory with due allowance for women and children, whose names are not included. Territory immediately adjacent, with its additional population, which is part of the city, as far as business and social life are concerned, is included in the Directory.

Six Major Departments

The several essential departments are arranged in the following order:

MISCELLANEOUS DEPARTMENT, pages 14 to 15, presents a variety of information, such as city government, county officials, courts, State and Federal officials, post office and public schools.

THE BUYERS' GUIDE, pages 17 to 32, printed on tinted paper, contains the advertisements of leading manufacturing, business and professional interests of Stockton, Lodi and San Joaquin County. These pages will be found particularly interesting and instructive to substantial purchasing factors. The advertisements have been carefully grouped by departments and are indexed under headings descriptive of the business represented. This is reference advertising at its best and, as such, merits a survey by all buyers anxious to familiarize themselves with sources of supply. The city's activities, in many interesting phases, are authentically pictured. In an ambitious and progressive community like Stockton, the necessity of having this kind of information immediately available, is very great and, frequently, pressing. General appreciation of this fact is evidenced by the liberal support the city directory enjoys in the many fields which it serves.

THE ALPHABETICAL LIST OF NAMES of residents, business firms, corporations is included in pages 33 to 366; for Acampo, Banta, Bellota, Bethany, Clements, Escalon, Farmington, French Camp, Holt, Lathrop, Linden, Lockeford, Lodi, Lyoth, Manteca, Middle River, Peters, Ripon, Thornton, Tracy, Vernalis, Woodbridge, 633 to 698.

THE STREET AND AVENUE GUIDE AND DIRECTORY OF HOUSEHOLDERS covers pages 369 to 483. In this section the names of the streets and avenues are arranged in alphabetical order; the residences and business houses are arranged numerically under the name of each street and avenue, and the names of householders and business concerns are placed opposite the numbers. For Lodi, pages 565 to 611.

THE CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY is included in pages 491 to 561. This department lists the various manufacturing, mercantile and professional interests in alphabetical order under appropriate headings. This feature constitutes an invaluable and indispensable epitome of the business interests of the community. "The Directory is the common intermediary between Buyer and Seller." As such it plays no small part in the daily doings of the business world. "More goods are bought and sold through the Classified Business Directory Section than through any other medium."

THE RURAL ROUTES are included in pages 699 to 770.

Municipal Publicity

The directory reflects the achievements and ambitions of the city, depicting in truthful terms what it has to offer as a place of residence, as a business location, as an industrial site and as an educational center. To broadcast this information, the publishers have placed copies of this issue of the directory in Directory Libraries, where they are readily available for free public reference and serve as perpetual and reliable advertisements of Stockton and San Joaquin County, for business men, everywhere, realize that the city directory represents a community as it really is.

The Stockton Directory Library

Through the courtesy of the publishers of the Stockton City Directory, a Directory Library is maintained in the offices of the Stockton Public Library, 203 E. Market Street, for free reference by the general public. This library is one of the system of more than 400, installed and operated in the chief cities of the U. S. and Canada, under the supervision of the Association of North American Directory Publishers, of which R. L. Polk & Co. is a member.

The publishers appreciatively acknowledge the recognition by those progressive business and professional men who have demonstrated their confidence in the city directory as an advertising medium, with assurance that it will bring a commensurate return.

R. L. POLK & CO. OF CALIFORNIA, Publishers.

California's Inland Harbor

By A. M. ROBERTSON

Secretary, Stockton Chamber of Commerce

THE CITY OF STOCKTON, located at the head of tide water and the junction of the San Joaquin and Sacramento Valleys, holds a strategic and dominant position in Interrial California. It is Interrial California's industrial and agricultural capital. Agricultural production in 1929, in San Joaquin County, of which Stockton is the county seat, reached the enormous figure of $52,000,000 covering 50 commercially grown crops, and Stockton's 227 manufacturing enterprises produced manufactured goods amounting to $42,000,000.

Stockton carries on a varied manufacturing activity in 227 industrial plants. Nearby are raw materials for manufacturing purposes, of structural and commercial minerals, raw materials produced from the forest, and agricultural products for processing and canning. Raw materials, labor, transportation facilities by rail and water, and cheap power, are the favorable factors which have contributed to Stockton's rapid industrial growth.

Manufacturers located in Stockton are in close proximity to the greatest percentage of population in California. The following table indicates the Stockton market, showing the population within a given distance of this city:

|-----------------------------|-----------|
| Within 50 mile radius.....  | 674,903   |
| Within 100 mile radius..... | 1,604,935 |
| Within 200 mile radius..... | 1,979,696 |
| Within 300 mile radius..... | 2,178,084 |
| Within 350 mile radius..... | 3,249,315 |

From Stockton radiate rivers, highways and railroads, and the new municipal airport makes possible transportation via aeroplane. Three trans-continental railroads enter the city: the Southern Pacific, Santa Fe and Western Pacific. The Central California Traction, Stockton Terminal & Eastern, and the Tidewater-Southern, all electric lines, provide additional transportation facilities. Six hundred miles of highways radiate from Stockton connecting with all sections of the county and with all main arteries of motor travel, and carry a heavy complement of motor trucks hauling freight and passenger motor stages.

Boat lines from Stockton move over 400 miles of navigable waterways in the county. Rapid water transportation from Stockton to the wharves of San Francisco carry an outgoing flood of manufactured goods and agricultural products, and incoming cargoes of raw materials and merchandise.

Stockton's present ship canal is to be dredged to a minimum depth of 26 feet at low water mark and a minimum top width of 720 feet. $6,000,000 has been appropriated for this work, $545,000 of which will be available on July 1, 1928, to be matched by a like amount from the Stockton deep water bond issue, for initial constructive work the first year. $419,000 of state funds are being expended for the purchase of rights of way. All engineering work has been completed. Actual dredging operations will commence soon after April 1, 1930. When this ship channel is completed, which engineers estimate will take three years, 90 per cent of all ocean going vessels can dock at the port of Stockton. This will afford trans-Pacific and coast line vessels taking on cargoes of food supplies, raw materials and manufactured products for the markets of the world, thereby compelling cheaper freight rates—a great asset in the building of any city. Already considerable activity is being manifested by the investment of outside capital in Stockton property.

Back of Stockton's prosperity and stability of industrial and commercial enterprises is the diversification of agricultural production in the San Joaquin and Sacramento Valleys.

San Joaquin County stands fourth in the value of farm production and in point of diversification, of all the counties of the United States. All lands in the county are adaptable to the culture of all deciduous fruits, grapes, berries, nuts, and practically all varieties of field and root crops. Dairying, poultry raising, barley and other grains, Irish potatoes, asparagus, alfalfa, cherries, and table grapes comprise the chief crops of the county.

Adjacent to the city are the irrigated delta lands of the San Joaquin River, which contributes greatly to the agricultural triumph of San Joaquin County. The area represents the most productive region of the world and comprises 250,000 acres of reclaimed lands.

Stockton's chief manufacturing enterprises include harvesters, paper products, trucks, boats, cereals, food products, canneries, feed stuffs, mill work, leather goods, foundries, machine shops, dredgers, pumps and other machinery.

The present population of Stockton, figured on a basis of public service installations, school attendance, and registrations, is 60,025. Stockton's total population is 94.3 per cent white, 4.9 per cent Indian, Chinese and Japanese, and 0.8 per cent negro.

Stockton is the gateway to some of California's finest recreation attractions: Lake Tahoe, Yosemite, Wawona and Calaveras Grove of Big Trees, and the historic mining section of California's early day gold rush, and the beach resorts of the Coast. Within a few hours ride over excellent highways practically any sort of recreation can be found.
