The Escalon District

Escalon is located in the southern section of San Joaquin County in the midst of an irrigation district which delivers water to every forty-acre tract. The widest diversification of crops is raised in this section.

Escalon has steam railroads, electric roads, stage and truck lines, in addition to a fine system of concrete highways.

Escalon has its own community movies. All profits go for better pictures and civic improvements. This enterprise is ten years old.

Without city government and with no official head, Escalon has street curbs, sidewalks, paved streets, more of the latter than some incorporated towns.

Escalon streets are well lighted. The business section is illuminated by modern lights on twelve-foot brackets. The lights are well placed in the residential section and extend to every part of the town. Natural gas is available from high pressure mains. Water under pressure is supplied by a local water company with rates reasonable.

The town of Escalon as well as the surrounding country has one of the best equipped motor fire trucks to be found in any town near the same size. The big pumper is available for both town and country fires and is fully equipped for use at any kind of fire. The local fire department, manned by a well trained and disciplined fire company, has in addition to the big pumper, a second truck and a number of hose reels. The section is favored with one of the lowest insurance rates in the state on account of the good showing of the fire department.

Without a street cleaning department the town of Escalon is to be found with clean streets and alleys. The town is well shaded and an ideal home town. It has six churches, an outstanding grammar school, a modern high school, a home owned bank, a home printed newspaper, an active chamber of commerce, as well as many modern business establishments, making it the trading center for Dent Township and the surrounding districts.
