THE STUDENT COUNCIL kept the campus Student Association running along smoothly throughout the year. With Student Association President, Bruce Loeb, the Council helped plan school affairs and participated in many student government programs. The council was host for the Northern California Junior College Student Government Association Conference which attracted nearly 300 students to the campus.

Student Association Officers

Stockton College Student Association officers did a fine job of conducting the business of the SC student body. Under the helpful supervision of Deans Allen Waldo and Margaret Taverner, the Student Council, presided over by president Bruce Loeb, successfully reduced the price of student body cards, passed and balanced the budget, and completely revised the SCSA constitution for acceptance in the spring election.

Student Council Accomplishments

The Stockton College Student Association this year hosted the bi-annual Northern California Junior College Regional Student Government Conference during the month of October. Bruce Loeb, SCSA president, served as president of the NCRSG Association. The conference proved to be a big success mainly because of the tremendous efforts and extensive preparations made by the Student Council.

The reduced price of the Student Association card from eight to five dollars made it possible for over fifty per cent of the students, the highest in SC history, to buy cards and participate in school activities. More students were able to vote, run for office, and enjoy school functions than in previous years.

Members of the Student Council attended meetings regularly throughout the school year. It was at these meetings that the big decisions affecting the student body were made. As the students' representatives, the council members acted as the governing body of the school.

*Ben — Lots of success & happiness in all you do.
See you at Newman Club

Miss Gerry Garden, the first teenager ever to receive a Public Interest Award from the San Joaquin County Safety Council, was presented with the award at the County Safety Council's 22nd Annual Banquet. The award was given to Miss Garden on the basis of her continuous work in safety over a three-year period.

Student Court

The Student Court, presided over by Chief Justice David Rule, met to consider the best means of upholding SC rules and regulations. The court served as a reminder to students that student government can often be more than just a job of administrating!
